M. G. LESLIE TO RETIRE NEXT JUNE

Says He Will Not Try to Succeed Himself as City Chairman.

HE WANTS NO OFFICE

Announces That He Will Endeavor to Turn the Reins Over to Some One on Inside.

CLARK MAY SUCCEED BIGELOW

M. G. Leslie will not be a candidate for re-election as chairman of the Republican city committee at the reorganization in June.

"I will not be a candidate to succeed myself as chairman of the Republican city committee," said Leslie yesterday. "Nor will I be a candidate for any other office either in or out of the organization. When the time comes for the reorganization of the city committee I will be glad to consult with all true Republicans about my successor. I do not believe that outsiders should be given the reins."

In speaking of the Republicans who are forming the secret Republican organization, Leslie said they were for the most part men who are always candidates for office or demand some compensation for their Republicanism. Leslie has been chairman during seven campaigns. His retirement will mean a complete reorganization, as Secretary Ostermaier and Treasurer McClure have announced they will not seek re-election.

Successor of Bigelow.

Friends of Director James W. Clark of the department of charities are feeling rather confident of his appointment by Mayor-Elect Guthrie to the head of the department of public works. There is a story in circulation that Director Bigelow was told by the new executive he is to be succeeded by Clark.

Some of the friends of Guthrie, who do not want him to put any politicians in his cabinet, are expressing the opinion they "fear" he will name Clark. While the new mayor has said he intends to keep his administration out of politics, there is belief he will break this rule in at least one particular. Ex-Congressman J. W. Brown, who is a brother-in-law of the mayor, has a desire to again be a national representative. He wants the seat held by Congressman Barchfeld, and a fusion fight is predicted this fall. As director of the department of public works Clark will be in a position to steer the administration forces to the benefit of Brown. He has the credit of being the best political manipulator in the Citizens party. Clark is insisting on either the directorship of works or safety. He was one of the strong factors in the election of Guthrie.

Will Have 47 Delegates.

This county will have 47 delegates in the Republican state convention. The 13 representative districts fare as follows: First, three; second, four; third, one; fourth, four; Fifth, two; Sixth, two; Seventh, three; Eighth, three; Ninth, five; Tenth, two; Eleventh, six; Twelfth, seven, and Thirteenth, five. The county committee at its meeting on Saturday will probably fix May 26 as the date for the election of the delegates. They will be chosen by popular vote.

The contest for the appointment of alderman in the Thirteenth ward to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Emil Sparr is between J. W. Neff and Henry Wolf. Gov. Pennypacker will appoint the man recommended by Senator Wilbert. Wolf is backed by Charles C. Schad, who was formerly a Citizen, but was elected select councilman at the recent election on the Republican ticket. Neff was a strong supporter of W. A. Magee for the mayoralty nomination. His opponents accuse him of not being very active for Jenkinson. Senator Wilbert has not made a decision.

TRAGEDY IN FLORIDA.

Negress and Two Children Murdered, and Nephew Under Arrest for the Bloody Work.

ARCADIA, FLA., March 18.—A negro woman, the wife of James Simmons, and two of their children, aged 3 and 5 years respectively, were killed Saturday at Pine Level. The older children returning home at dusk failed to find their mother, but retired. Sunday morning a turpentine hand went to see the family, and he and the children after a search found the mangled bodies in an old well.

A bloody knife and gunstock lying in the yard were identified as belonging to Albert Simmons, nephew of the murdered woman, and Simmons has been arrested.

Another "Black Hand" Outrage.

ALTOONA, PA., March 18.—(Special.)—"Black Hand" operations continue to keep the miners of Cambria county in fear. Last night at Amsburg Diney Mitchell, who was on his way to attend a meeting of miners, was attacked by four masked men who slashed him about the face and body. He cannot live. Mitchell had received a "Black Hand" warning. This is the second outrage at Amsburg within three weeks.

REPUBLIC MOVES ITS OFFICE FORCE FROM WINDY CITY

Headquarters to Be in Frick Building—Eighty New-Comers Favor Greater Pittsburgh.

Bearing 80 members of the office force of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, formerly of Chicago, a special train arrived yesterday over the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie road, as a very tangible tribute to this city's commercial supremacy. The company will formally open its main offices on the fifth, sixth and seventh floors of the Frick building today this morning, and imported its Chicago office force, bag and baggage, for that purpose.

Arriving in the city at 10:30 a. m., the 80 clerks and many officials went to the Monongahela hotel as the company's guests at luncheon. The party commented freely on the fact that Chicago was a far smokier, sootier city than the much-maligned Pittsburgh. The dinner took on the aspects of an informal banquet and many speeches were made that were as complimentary to the city as could be expected of Chicagoans. Informal resolutions were adopted that the office force would take example from the company and become acclimatized forthwith. They commented favorably on the Greater Pittsburgh project, and declared they would get behind the boom on the principle that "every little bit helps."

The party then dispersed to their new homes.

SHOOT LITTLE GIRL.

Allegheny Boys Who Use a Flobert Rifle Carelessly Will Probably Destroy Child's Sight.

Clara Yochim, aged eight, daughter of Edward Yochim of 1429 Hoffman street, Allegheny, is in St. John's General hospital with injuries to her eyes that will likely make her blind. While returning from Sunday school yesterday afternoon she was shot in the face. Some boys shooting a flobert rifle in Knox street are responsible for the accident. The ball entered the girl's face under her left eye and plowed through her nose and under the right eye, coming out at her temple.

The boys are known and arrests will be made today. The hospital physicians say one of the girl's eyes is totally destroyed and the other dangerously injured.

JEALOUSY PROMPTS MURDER.

Columbia Man Slays Citizen Who Tried to Prejudice Sweetheart Against the Murderer.

LANCASTER, PA., March 18.—Clayton Christy, aged 24 years, shot and killed Frank Meissinger, 47 years old, Saturday night at Columbia. Christy claimed Meissinger had attempted to prejudice against him, Miss Grace Findley, to whom he has been paying attentions. After drinking heavily, shortly before midnight, Christy called at the Meissinger home on Front street.

He shot at Washington Meissinger, a son, who opened the door for him, but missed his mark, and then fired a bullet into the breast of Frank Meissinger, who had come to the door at the sound of the first shot. Meissinger died almost immediately.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

The Smith brothers, fishermen of Port Washington, went to the rescue with the tug Tessler, and rescued the passengers and crew, numbering 65 persons, who had taken to lifeboats.

All were safely transferred to the steamer Georgia, another of the Goodrich line boats, northbound, with the exception of one man, who was drowned during the transfer.

AMOROUS MR. HILLER.

His Attentions to Handsome Slavish Woman Causes Trouble at Broski's Party.

Charles Hiller of 1611 Bingham street attended a Slavish celebration in the rooms of Stephen Broski in McFadden's row in Muriel street, yesterday. Hiller was introduced to a handsome young woman, who with her husband, was there, helping a large party to drink beer. The name struck Hiller as pretty. It was Tzaljowski. He paid much attention to Mrs. Tz., and that aroused the resentment of Mr. Tz.

Hiller found friends, and all the boarders of Tzaljowski, who lived next door, sided against Hiller. Broski and Hiller were thrown from the house. Hiller threw a coupling pin through the window, hitting a man, and a crowd of 20 poured into the street, fighting. Lieut. Charles McAfee and a squad of policemen hove in sight and arrested Broski and Hiller.

THE GEMS WERE BOGUS.

Philadelphia School Girl's Honesty Is Poorly Rewarded by Grateful New York Woman.

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—(Special.)—Bitter disappointment filled the heart of Fannie Waldman, the Philadelphia high school girl today, when she learned that the opal and the diamonds given her by a supposedly rich New York woman as a reward for honesty, were pronounced fakes. The girl found a pocketbook containing $65 on Saturday and gave it to a woman who said she was "Mrs. E. L. Cox of New York," and that she had lost the money.

"You dear child," said Mrs. Cox, and she took Miss Waldman to the Bellevue-Stratford for dinner, and then gave her the opal ring and the diamond locket. "A fine rich lady, she was, to treat me daughter so," said Mrs. Waldman tonight.

AND HE IS STILL ALIVE.

Chauffeur Claims He Was Assaulted, Hypnotized, Kidnaped, Robbed and Imprisoned.

ST. LOUIS, MO., March 18.—(Special.)—Carl Vickers, an inventor, who came here from New Comerstown, O., reported to the police this evening that he had been held up, assaulted, drugged or hypnotized, kidnapped, robbed and held prisoner for 24 hours by two men, who took $250 away from him and left him in a room at the new Lindell hotel, where he returned to consciousness late yesterday afternoon. His bride of a few months corroborated his story.

Vickers until recently was employed by E. G. Cowdery vice president of La-clede Gas Company, as chauffeur. He is said to have devised a new kind of automobile which he proposes to manufacture for the market.

Sues Baron Besticki for $10,000.

YORK, PA., March 18.—(Special.)—A collision between an automobile run by Baron Besticki of Fairview township and a team driven by Samuel Overly of the same township, has resulted in a damage suit in which Overly claims $10,000 for injuries to his wife.

ORR'S HUNT FOR PROXIES IS ASSAILED

Counsel for New York Policy-Holders Write Vigorous Letter.

FUNDS ARE MISUSED

Expenditures in Campaign for Support Cannot Be Justified, Says Mr. Untermeyer.

POLICY-HOLDERS ARE FURIOUS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 18.—Samuel Untermeyer, counsel for the international policy-holders' committee of the New York Life Insurance Company, today sent a letter to Alexander E. Orr, president of the New York Life, protesting in the name of the policy-holders against what he terms the extraordinary effort that is being made by the officers of the company to obtain proxies for the annual election which is to be held early in April.

Mr. Untermeyer's letter explains the objection of the committee and declares that no election should be held until legislation effecting the insurance business is passed.

"I am informed," the letter continues, "that within the past few days you sent out from your head office to your entire agency force throughout the country telegrams urging them to collect proxies.

An Expensive Move.

If the documents have been sent to every policy-holder, the cost to the company of postage alone would be about $30,000, and the cost of printing the stationery as much more. How you justify such expenditures (to say nothing of the manifest impropriety of such action at this juncture), I fail to understand.

"These documents are coming to us in great numbers from infuriated policy-holders with the request that our committee take some action to prevent your thus wasting the money of the policy-holders in the attempt to return yourself to office."

Andrew Hamilton arrived in New York tonight, prepared to work more trouble for his former associates of the New York Life Insurance Company, who, he believes, have been responsible for his humiliation and the death of his friend, John A. McCall.

Bliss Makes Denial.

Mr. Hamilton, it is said, believes that the willingness of the directors of the New York Life to repay the $148,000 advanced to the Republican national committee in the last three campaigns, is a plan to escape more severe penalties. It is his opinion that much greater campaign contributions have been made.

A personal and professional friend of Mr. Hamilton today said that a voucher for $75,000, signed by Cornelius N. Bliss, as treasurer of the Republican national committee, is where it can be produced when needed. Tonight Mr. Bliss denied the existence of any such voucher.

Reports that the McCall estate would be able to recover from the New York Life the $235,000 paid by him, impelled a man professionally familiar with the larger history of these transactions, to say to The Gazette today: "It is not prudent just now to go deeply into this subject, but the $235,000 must be repaid to the McCall estate, either by the New York Life, or by the trustees."

ROASTS TORREY'S METHOD.

Congregation Cheers When Evangelist Declares God Is Pictured as Dead Monster.

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—(Special.)—E. E. Franke, an evangelist from New York, tonight took a fall out of Dr. Reuben A. Torrey, who is just now trying to spiritually regenerate Philadelphia. Mr. Franke very frankly said in an address that he believes Dr. Torrey in his efforts to frighten sinners blasphemes by picturing God as a veritable dread monster.

"Torrey's doctrine," he said, "is an infernal doctrine that insults God and is founded on ignorance of the Bible."

When Mr. Franke got through roasting Dr. Torrey the congregation so far forgot itself as to break forth in applause. When he asked how many believed in the hell of which Torrey teaches, only three raised their hands.

THOMAS GRIFFITH, THE FRIEND OF YOUTH, DIES

After Acquiring a Fortune Man Who Was Denied Education Helps Others to Get One.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, PA., March 18.—Thomas Griffith, aged 69, a wealthy farmer and stock raiser, and a prominent Republican leader, who devoted a portion of his wealth to helping both men and women to acquire a college education, died yesterday at his home in Claysville, this county. He was a native of this county and, after amassing a fortune, he engaged actively in politics and is said to have done more to promote education in Washington county than any other man.

He served three terms as poor director and held many minor offices in his township. Many years ago Mr. Griffith, who only had a common school training, announced that any man or woman who had not the financial means to attend college, could secure the necessary funds from him, and he is said to have furnished money for the education of many persons.

Mr. Griffith was a civil war veteran, having served with Company A, Eighty-fifth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers.

CRIPPLE BADLY HURT SAVING A BOY'S LIFE

Rescues Lad from a Street Car and Both Fall Under Feet of a Horse.

Patrick Kelly, a cripple, saved the life of a boy at the risk of his own in Penn avenue, near Fourteenth street, last night and was badly injured. William Schuster, aged 14, of 1531 Penn avenue was going home from church and was crossing the street when a car dashed towards him.

Young Schuster did not notice the car, but Kelly saw the boy's peril, and without a moment's hesitation ran into the street, grabbed the boy and pulled him back from the track as the fender of the car grazed them. The boy and cripple stepped right in front of a wagon of the Ward-Mackey Company. They fell together under the feet of the horses. When taken out it was found that Kelly was badly bruised and cut about the head and body. He was taken to the Mercy hospital. Young Schuster escaped with a few bruises. Kelly lives at 919 Penn avenue.

THOUSANDS SIGN PETITION.

Gov. Hanly Asked to Pardon Former State Auditor Sherrick, Convicted of Embezzlement.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 18.—(Special.)—Probably the most numerously signed petition ever presented to a governor of a state will be forwarded to Gov. Hanly the latter part of the week from every county in Indiana. The petitions ask for executive clemency for David E. Sherrick, the former state auditor, convicted of embezzling state funds, and now in jail awaiting the result of an application for a new trial.

Immediately following his conviction printed petitions were gotten out by his friends and they have already been signed by more than 50,000 persons. It is estimated that three or four times that many signatures will be attached before the end of the week.

THREE MEN CUT IN FIGHT.

Quarrel in an Allegheny Boarding House Results in Knife Slashing—Arrests Are Made.

Three men were slashed with a knife in a quarrel at a boarding house at 1233 Winter street, Allegheny, yesterday. C. P. Littell, who resides at 605 Washington street, went to the Winter street boarding house where J. E. Scott and Neil Bonner make their home, and the three men quarreled.

Littell and Scott were badly cut about the hands and arms. Bonner got slight cuts on the hands and was locked up at Central police station. The other two men were permitted to remain at home to have their wounds dressed.

Louisiana Mob Visits Summary "Justice" on Negro Taken from Officer's Posse.

PLAQUEMINE, LA., March 18.—William Carr, a negro, was lynched at Bayou Plaquemine last night for stealing and killing a cow.

BARON'S DIVORCED WIFE ENDS LIFE WITH PISTOL

Caroline Von Dem Bussche Kills Herself in the Quarters of Her Son, an Army Officer at Fort Leavenworth.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LEAVENWORTH, KAS., March 18.—Caroline von dem Bussche, said to be the divorced wife of Baron von dem Bussche-Haddenhausen, a German baron of Berlin, today committed suicide by shooting at the headquarters of her son, Second Lieutenant Carl Frederick von dem Bussche of the Eighteenth infantry, U. S. A., at Fort Leavenworth. Lieut. von dem Bussche is a cousin of Freiherr von dem Bussche-Haddenhausen, first secretary of the German embassy at Washington, D. C.

No cause, except possibly melancholia, is known for the suicide. Officers at the fort decline to make known any details regarding the affair.

Mrs. von dem Bussche fired a bullet into her head in her room, adjoining her son's private room. She had lived with him for some time. She is said to have been treated last summer for a nervous disease at Denver, where she formerly lived.

Baron von dem Bussche and his wife are said to have come to the United States from Prussia several years ago. He was a mining engineer, and for many years lived at Denver, where the son was born.

The son, in 1898, enlisted in the Sixth infantry and in 1901 was commissioned second lieutenant. Three years ago Lieut. von dem Bussche was ordered to the Philippines with his regiment, and his mother accompanied him. When he returned to Fort Leavenworth something over a year ago, she followed him and since has lived with the young officer at the officers' quarters at the fort.

COAL STRIKE IS REGARDED AS CERTAIN

Outlook on the Eve of Meeting of Operators Not Reassuring.

A SPLIT IS IMMINENT

Operators Flatly Announce Themselves as Opposed to Concessions to Miners.

RYAN RESOLUTION IGNORED

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., March 18.—With the arrival of operators here in colonies today, there is nothing to indicate that the interstate wage agreement, which has been the safety valve in bituminous labor affairs since 1898, can be continued. A split and a strike is practically certain.

As arranged between some of the leaders on both sides, a compromise offer will undoubtedly be made to miners at least for some of the four competitive fields before the first of April, and accepted, but this can hardly be effected without a strike which will likely be shortest in Western Pennsylvania, where the leading operators will make concessions, and if the miners bind their constituents there against an agreement the operators will have to post notices of concessions and get their miners to work as best they can.

When the operators of the interstate field meet here in the Claypool hotel tomorrow the first move which will probably be led by Col. Horace L. Chapman of Ohio, once Democratic nominee for the governorship of that state, who will insist that the operators again pledge themselves to the unit rule, which will mean no joint agreement unless the operators of Illinois practically grant a continuation of the advantage which their miners have in the short firer system.

Opposed to Concessions.

Besides nearly all the operators of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois say they are unalterably opposed to any concessions whatever. President John H. Winder of the Sunday Creek Company, of Ohio, the Morgan interests operating in that state and in West Virginia, declared tonight to your correspondent: "All I have to say is that we are against any wage advance."

If the operators, contrary to expectations, which may involve the breaking up of this meeting within 24 hours, fix upon a platform on which to meet the miners, the very next step will be to ask the miners how they can meet them and proceed to business with the Ryan resolution still in existence. Your correspondent was in error in saying that the miners would handle this instrument through its resolutions committee, but Mitchell agreed to have it killed. The Ryan resolution was passed by the convention and must be brought forth by the same body for repeal. The operators will insist that this step be taken, not being content at the vague contention that the report of the miners' scale committee makes this notorious document in.

The Ryan resolution was in a sense ignored in the same way when the miners went into conference with the anthracite operators in New York. But it stands an ugly big stick under which John Mitchell could not enter any agreement with these people or any others if they were ready to grant all his demands unless the rank and file of his organization consents, through this or some other convention, of course, or the referendum.

Mitchell in a Pretty Mess.

It is a pretty mess in which John Mitchell, the "little minister" of the miners, finds himself. Mitchell is a right smart chap, and is still full of fight, but it is said that when he received the answer of the anthracite operators he turned ghastly pale, and was speechless for five minutes. It was such a shock that he had not recovered on Saturday, when he dictated his answer to Mr. Baer, released by the Associated Press tonight. It is a time-killer, like the droning of the Macbeth witches while the bituminous cauldron is boiling. Bituminous operators tonight laughed at its declaration that possibly such men as Baer, Wilcox and Morris Williams did not thoroughly understand the contentions of the miners in the arguments of their case.

All Ohio, Indiana and Illinois operators talked to by your correspondent here today, and they are here in force, declare that they will stand for no wage advance. The main stumbling block to a settlement at this time is reflected in the following statement which Herman Justi, commissioner of the Illinois Coal Operators' association, today dictated to The Gazette representative:

"Competitive conditions considered, and the result of business for the past two years examined, the coal mine operators of Illinois have concluded that conditions cannot be made any worse, happen what may. The system of joint trade agreements, if adopted, they were assured, would guarantee to the operators of every bituminous field competitive equality. This competitive equality has utterly failed to materialize. The machine differential in Illinois is 7 cents, as against 14 cents in Indiana, and as against from 21 to 28 cents in Ohio and Pennsylvania. This restricts the use of machines in Illinois to employment only where the use of machines will overcome the evils of the miner-run system.

Robbins in a Conference.

"Without regard for the interests or the wishes of the coal mine operators of Illinois, the miners secured the passage of a shot-firer bill, which placed the coal mine operators of Illinois at a still greater disadvantage as compared with the coal mine operators of other states."

Despite the gathering clouds of a labor war the operators here are in gentlemanly convivial mood. Mr. Robbins of the Pittsburgh Coal Company and Mr.

Mitchell of the miners held several conferences today. They are trying hard to find their way out, and while their plans are good, they are unsatisfactory to their constituents on both sides.

Independent operators already here from Pittsburgh are C. H. Wisser, owning several Pittsburgh mines; George A. Magoon, D. W. Kuhn and H. A. Andrews of the Pittsburgh and Westmoreland Coal Company, J. W. Woomer of the Bulger Block Coal Company, A. G. Hunt, Fayette Coal Company, and A. J. Wisser, Ayers Hollow Coal Company.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE SOUGHT WITH BAER

President Mitchell Says Neither Side Can Now Afford to Terminate Negotiations.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., March 18.—President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America, has mailed to George F. Baer, chairman of the anthracite coal operators' committee, his reply to the committee's communication rejecting the demands of the miners' organization. In this letter Mr. Mitchell says the miners "have again reviewed the scale presented for your consideration; have compared it with the scale of wages paid for similar classes of labor in other coal producing states and districts, and we are satisfied beyond the peradventure of doubt that the wages proposed are not in excess of; indeed, that they are not so high as the wages paid in the bituminous mining districts of our country."

"It is our opinion that neither you nor we can afford to break off negotiations in this abrupt manner. So far as we and the interests we represent are concerned, we are not willing to accept any share of the responsibility this action entails. We believe that further meeting should be held and that we should strive earnestly and conscientiously to reconcile our differences. We, therefore, propose that further conference or conferences be held between now and the first of April.

"If this suggestion meets with your approval, we shall be pleased to arrange with you a date upon which our joint committee may reconvene."

ALGECIRAS DELEGATES LOOK FOR AGREEMENT

It Is Not Believed That the Deadlock on Moroccan Reforms Can Continue Longer.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ALGECIRAS, SPAIN, March 18.—The general disposition of the delegates to the conference on Moroccan reform continues inclined toward optimism, but no further apparent move has been made in the direction of a solution of the points at issue between France and Germany. The delegates of the neutral confer separately with the French and German delegates several times daily, striking to modify the outwardly uncompromising stand taken by both sides. It is the general belief, however, that the present situation of indecision will not change until further instructions are received from Paris and Berlin.

Meanwhile the French and German delegates do not discuss the situation together. Each side is vainly awaiting the sign of a concession from the other and maintaining its respective standpoint.

The neutral delegates do not believe the deadlock will last much longer and express the conviction that neither France nor Germany will allow the conference to fail after such prodigious efforts have been made by all the powers represented to have them reach an equitable understanding.

TALKS ON ST. PATRICK.

Allegheny Minister Lauds the Work of Ireland's Patron Saint.

Dr. Charles W. Blodgett, pastor of the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal church of Allegheny, spoke last night on "Ireland and St. Patrick." He placed four men before the mind's eye as the great apostles since Christ. They were St. Paul, St. Patrick, Martin Luther and John Wesley. He said that through the preaching of St. Patrick Ireland was converted from paganism to Christianity and was the only land that had been consecrated to God without the shedding of blood.

St. Patrick was as truly inspired as St. Paul. He was a man of unselfish spirit, with a method in work and with the other thought than to do good. He was prodigious in labor and founded the monastic system of Ireland, created churches by the score and built schools. Druidism and sun worship existed at the time of St. Patrick, and he attacked both and won for Christ. St. Patrick, he says, is worthy to be the patron saint not only of the Irish, but of every Christian.

RESORTS ARE CLOSED.

Director Moore Devising Plan by Which to Abolish Tenderloin District of Eighth Ward.

Director Moore is seriously considering abolishing the tenderloin district of Colwell street. Numerous complaints have been made by business men of this section of the city, and the inmates of the Colwell street tenderloin will have to seek another section of the city. When the houses in the Eighth ward were closed several weeks ago the business men decided to keep them closed if possible. Last week the police closed a number of the larger resorts in Colwell street. It is probable Director Moore will not permit them to reopen, and will compel the women to go elsewhere.

NEW COMBINE IN TROLLEY FIGHT

Bigelow Says Secret Influences Have Beaten Franchise in Select Council.

MEETING MAY BE CALLED OFF

Director Bigelow admits that the East End trolley franchise bill is practically beaten, and says he is about ready to quit the fight, but does not attribute his defeat to public sentiment. He claims a quorum would have been secured Friday night and the ordinance passed had it not been for secret influences at work.

There are persistent reports that efforts are being made to organize a "combine" in select council for the purpose of holding up the Pittsburgh Railways Company, and that this "combine" was doing business last Friday night when over 30 members of select council were in the city hall and only 18 answered the roll call when President Wightman saw his opportunity and declared the meeting adjourned amid the cheers of the lobby.

It was 25 minutes past the time set for the meeting, and 14 members were outside in the corridors when President Wightman adjourned the meeting. Director Bigelow does not believe that a quorum would have been secured even if President Wightman had granted a recess, although at that time there were five members within a few feet of the council chamber who voted for the suspension of the rules to pass the ordinance the previous night.

Secret Influences Against Bill.

One of those five councilmen was asked why he did not go into the meeting. "That is a secret," he replied. Another, when asked the question, gave a knowing wink.

"It Was not President Wightman that prevented us from getting a quorum and passing the ordinance on Friday night," said Director Bigelow yesterday. "Nor were the councilmen scared by the big lobby. The Duquesne light repealer had nothing to do with it, either. I know what the trouble was. I know all about it."

"Are you going to give up the fight?" Director Bigelow was asked.

"I think so," said he, "but I will not say positively until tomorrow, when I will talk with some of the boys. There is nothing in all this fuss. The company has not asked for this line. It was that asked for it. The ordinance ought to pass and every member of councils ought to vote for it."

Dr. E. R. Walters, select councilman from the Twentieth ward, who was criticised at the East End meeting Saturday night for voting for the passage of the ordinance and for signing the call for tonight's special meeting, said yesterday he was undecided what to do.

Walters Favors Rental Clause.

"I have been for the ordinance, but the people in the East End must be given some consideration," said Dr. Walters. "I really don't know what to do about it. I have been for the new trolley line. I believed it would be a good thing. The new line would make the picnic grounds of Highland park more accessible. As it is now it is a mile's walk to it from the end of the present line to the park.

"I think that the solution of the whole matter will probably be the insertion of a compensation clause in the ordinance, but that would only please one element. It would not satisfy those who live along the route of the new line, who are opposed to the new line on any terms. I suppose the only way to please everybody would be to knock out the ordinance, but I don't think that ought to be done.

"There is absolutely nothing in the argument made at the East End meeting by Mr. Stevenson, that the proposed line would shut out competition. Highland park is already hemmed in by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, and there is no room there for a competing company to get in. The people who are causing all this trouble are simply making a mountain out of a molehill."

West Doesn't Expect Meeting Tonight.

"The proposition to tax the gross receipts of the new line is impracticable, because it would be impossible to arrive at the receipts, as the line would be only a branch of a line from Highland park to the downtown section. The feasible plan would be to charge an annual rental."

Mr. Walters denied emphatically that his position in the trolley fight had anything to do with his candidacy for the presidency of the next select council.

"I don't believe there will be a quorum of select council tomorrow night," said Select Councilman Charles H. West of the Nineteenth ward, who is opposing the ordinance. Mr. West is prepared to offer a compensation amendment to the ordinance if a meeting is held tonight. When told yesterday that Dr. Walters said he believed the trolley bill would be passed with a compensation clause, Mr. West said: "That would be satisfactory." Some of Mr. West's constituents, however, are fighting the granting of the franchise on any terms.

Director Bigelow said he did not know whether President Callery of the Pittsburgh Railways Company would accept the franchise with a compensation attached to it. President Callery's letter will be read tonight by President Wightman if there is a meeting of select council. A big crowd is expected at the city hall from the East End, the Pittsburgh board of trade and the chamber of commerce.

The Sixth Ward Civic association will meet at 7 o'clock tonight at the Forbes school to make protest against granting the franchise. After adjournment the meeting will go in a body to city hall to join in the protest against the railway franchise. The association has stirred up considerable sentiment against the ordinance for vacating a 15-foot strip of Watson street, and this matter is to be aired at the meeting also.

WELSH VOCAL CONTESTANTS HAVE TO BE WEEDED OUT

Unusual Number of Entries for the Pittsburgh Eisteddfod—Come from All Over the United States and from Old Country.

The entries for the Pittsburgh eisteddfod, which is to be held in Carnegie hall, Allegheny, next Saturday, closed on Saturday with so many candidates for contests that it has been decided preliminary examinations will have to be held. These will begin at the hall at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, the contest proper to begin at 2:30 p. m. Competitors in solo work and recitations will be obliged to attend the preliminary hearing, and the five candidates making the highest percentage only will be permitted to take part in the final competitions. A large number are from surrounding towns and will be accompanied by delegations and associations.

Hon. Howell Jones of Topeka, Kan., will preside at the afternoon meeting, the principal event of which will be a choral competition for juvenile choirs of from 25 to 30 voices. The test selection is "Le Skylark," which choruses in Homestead, Etna, Carnegie, New Castle and other towns have been practicing ever since the committee announced it. At the same session there will be contests in solo work for baritone and soprano voices, piano and children's solos and recitations, and in the Welsh epigram, in which latter there are 36 contestants, from nearly every state in the Union, some from Wales and others from Canada.

T. C. Jenkins will preside at the evening session, the principal event of which will be the contest in male choral societies. Entries have come from New Castle, Steubenville and all the nearby towns, as well as from several local bodies. There will also be a contest of mixed voices in choral work from many local and out-of-town clubs. The tenor and contralto solos, a Welsh recitation, an extemporaneous speech and a spelling contest will also be on the night program. Prof. J. Powell Jones, instructor of music in the Cleveland High school, will award the prizes in music. E. S. Griffith, also of Cleveland, will award the prizes in orations. John Grey of New Castle will decide the winners in bardic interests, and A. J. Edwards will be the general conductor.

PRESIDENT REPROVED BY DR. PARKHURST

Message to Gen. Wood Described as an Official Expression of Heartlessness.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 18.—In his sermon on the relations of so-called Christian nations that are pagan, the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst referred today to the recent killing of Moros and President Roosevelt's congratulatory dispatch to Gen. Wood.

"There are two things," he said, "to be said about the jubilant congratulation sent by the chief executive to Gen. Wood. The first is in reference to the designation of the performance as a 'brilliant feat of arms.' Basing our estimates on the reports rendered by Gen. Wood, it was no more a 'brilliant feat of arms' than smoking bees out of a hive or rats out of a nest.

"But a far sadder feature of the executive communication to Gen. Wood is that it contained not one word of sympathy, one note of tender distress, in view of the indiscriminate slaughter perpetrated in 'honor of the American flag.' We have been taught to believe, and we like to believe, that the President has a great heart.

"And so I prefer to think of that cablegram, composed as it was in the presence, practically, of mangled men, torn women, armless and headless children, not as the expression of the man Roosevelt, but of the President Roosevelt, in whom officially the heartlessness and the greed of unregenerate nationality is functionally represented. I want to find a way out for Roosevelt, for the performance on the Jolo island has a ghastly look."

WINE AT 5 CENTS GLASS CAUSES CUTTING AFFRAY

Allegheny Man Has Stiletto Plunged Through Body in Spring Garden Avenue Resort.

August Metzgar, of 955 Spring Garden avenue, Allegheny, is in a critical condition and will likely die of a knife wound in his right breast. His assailant is unknown and Police Superintendent Glenn has several detectives at work.

The cutting occurred in Dietz's cigar store in Spring Garden avenue, near Humboldt street, shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Lucretia Potter, aged 23, Mary Bruninger, aged 28, and Rudolph Wolff, aged 20, were arrested shortly after Metzgar was taken home. At Central station they denied all knowledge of the tragedy, but said they were in the house when a fight took place. Metzgar is so critically ill that he is unable to speak.

Wine at five cents a glass is sold in Dietz's on Sunday, according to the two young women and the youth arrested with them. Metzgar, with one of his brothers and four other men, were in a rear room when, it is said, one of the Metzgars started a fight. Immediately after it was stopped four of the men left. A minute later August Metzgar swooned, and it was discovered he was stabbed. A long stiletto had been plunged into his chest, the point going through and coming out between his shoulder blades. It is thought the lung was pierced, as internal hemorrhages set in. After questioning the three prisoners last night Superintendent Glenn released them and said he had obtained from them information that would lead to the arrest of Metzgar's assailant.

NO TRAINS RUNNING.

Consequently Report of Great Life Loss in Snowslide in Colorado Is Not Credited.

TELLURIDE, COL., March 18.—A rumor was in circulation last night that a passenger train on the Rio Grande & Southern railroad had been buried by a snowslide near Ophir loop and 30 persons killed. Diligent inquiry has failed to disclose any foundation for the report. Railroad officials say there was no train in the vicinity of Ophir loop at the time.

For a week it has been storming almost continually in the region. No train has run between Telluride and Durango for a week, and the road is still blocked near Ophir and Rio.

Gazette Half-Tone Section Springs Into Popular Favor

The rapidity with which the Sunday Gazette's half-tone Illustrated section has bounded into popular favor augurs well for its future. It is safe to say that no innovation in newspaper work has been received with an equally friendly spirit in the field in which The Sunday Gazette circulates. From all sections of the Pittsburgh district came yesterday requests for The Sunday Gazette with the half-tone section, for the beauty of the work and the character of the sketches were of a nature to appeal to all newspaper readers. The Sunday Gazette half-tones stand out like real photographs; they are made from scenes and people who are familiar to Pittsburgh district readers, or who are in the minds of those living in this vicinity. The work of the first section a week ago was good; that of yesterday better, and those yet to come will even excel those which have gone before, for The Sunday Gazette is always moving forward.

There were many features of The Sunday Gazette which yesterday served to increase its myriads of readers. In the first place the news, the foundation on which the excellence of a newspaper is built, left nothing to be desired. It was gathered from every continent, every country, state, county, city, borough, ward and neighborhood. The Sunday Gazette overlooked nothing. The doings of the crowned heads of Europe were related in pleasing style, while the capers of a mad dog in Carnegie was given just as much space in comparison with the importance of the news, because it appealed to a certain community. That is one of the pleasing features of The Sunday Gazette; no community is neglected.

The Worker's Magazine yesterday was replete with more of those sterling articles of an industrial nature. The workmen of the world are interested in these articles because they appeal directly to them. That is why they are printed; they furnish a literary treat for a certain class of readers along the lines of thought in which their whole lives center.

The Home Journal section was bright and snappy as usual. The feminine literary critics have found nothing but words of praise for this valuable adjunct to The Sunday Gazette. It deals with the home, with the fashions, with all of the little things of life to which the feminine mind turns when the more serious details have for the nonce been laid aside.

For those whose sense of humor has not been completely stunted The Sunday Gazette comic supplement is at once a source of keen delight. Mr. Coon got gay yesterday and undertook to sink his teeth into the off hind leg of a mule. The sequel is too sad to go into any deeper. Little Jimmy Swift and his pals got busy with a bath tub, and James, of course, paid the freight. Nemo got into Slumberland—nearly. The rest of the comedians were in equally good form.

LOCAL CAPITAL IN BIG HAVANA HOTEL

Pittsburghers Interested in the Building of Modern Hostelry in the Cuban Capital.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 18.—Pittsburgh capital and material is to be utilized in the construction of a large modern hotel in Havana. A site located in the principal section of the Cuban capital has already been secured and building operations will be commenced inside of 60 days. The carrying out of the enterprise will curtail an expenditure of almost $1,500,000.

Cuban advices are that the heavy travel of the present season has simply swamped the hotels in Havana and people from the states who were willing to pay all the way from $10 to $40 a day have been compelled to put up at dollar-a-day houses, because all the better class of hostelries were filled to their utmost capacity.

The new hotel is to have 312 rooms, 211 of which will have bath rooms. The prices for rooms are planned to be those which prevail in first-class hotels in the large cities in the states, and will cost less than accommodation does at the principal existing Havana hotels. The best hotels in Havana charge $16 a day for their single rooms with bath room during the winter months and half that price in summer.

Interests identified with the Cuban Eastern railroad in which T. N. Barnsdall, president of the Pennsylvania Oil and Coal Company and other prominent Pittsburghers are primarily concerned in the enterprise. The Havana Hotel Company, incorporated under the laws of the state of Maine, is the title of the concern which is to build and operate the hotel. The new establishment is expected to be ready for guests by January next.

ON "WIVES AND HUSBANDS."

The Rev. Mr. McKee Gives News on Ideal Married Couple as Described by the Apostle Peter.

The Rev. Daniel H. McKee, pastor of the McCandless Avenue Presbyterian church, preached last evening on "Wives and Husbands." He said in part:

According to the apostle, there are three characteristics which belong to the ideal wife: First, there must be "chaste behavior." She must live a pure life. The model wife is ever watchful to keep her character without a stain. She must also have a "meek and quiet spirit." This does not mean a cringing or servile spirit. It means that she should exercise self-control, that all her thoughts and inclinations should be in subjection to the law of service. She should be able to forget self in her endeavor to promote the welfare and happiness of her home. Such a woman is always refined and quiet in her manner.

Again, it is said that she shall not be subject to fears. To fear is to be weak and given to worry. Worry indicates a lack of faith in God. The model wife is not in bondage to fears, because her trust is in God.

Concerning husbands, it is enjoined that they "shall dwell with their wives according to knowledge," evidently meaning that husbands are to be thoughtful in the treatment of their wives. The true husband is always asking: "How can I best serve my wife and children? How can I make them most happy?" He will try to make his own person and conduct pleasing to them. He will spend his money for their good. He will aim to make his home a heaven on earth.

He is also commanded to give "honor unto the woman." But how can a man do this unless he is himself a man of honor. A man cannot appreciate noble qualities in another who does not have them in himself. Husbands are so to conduct themselves that "their prayers be not hindered. No man should ever treat his wife and children in such a way as to make him feel ashamed to pray in their presence. Moreover he should regard the wishes and requests made to him by his family in the same considerate and merciful spirit that he desires that God shall show to him when he prays. And what he prays that God shall do for himself and for his home he should strive to realize in his practice.

KIRBY'S HEART IS TOUCHED.

Negro Prisoners Adorned With Insignia of Old Ireland Are All Given Their Liberty.

"I'm a son of the ould sod," said a prisoner when he faced Magistrate Kirby at the Central station yesterday morning.

The magistrate glared down at the prisoner. The latter was as black as the proverbal ace of spades. Kentucky or "Sunny Tennessee" was undoubtedly his birthplace, but he gave evidence of having a wholesome respect for Erin for on the lapel of his coat was pinned an immense cloth shamrock.

"Stand aside," thundered the magistrate.

Then, one by one, marched to the bar a half-dozen other negroes, the shamrock shone green upon the coat of each. Then Magistrate Kirby, became suspicious, particularly when Inspector Robinson was apparently getting so much fun out of the occasion.

It developed that Robinson owned the shamrock and had pinned it to the coat of each negro as his name was called, having previously coached him what to say. Magistrate Kirby's true Irish heart was touched and all of the negroes were allowed to go free.

STORER TO RETIRE.

Ambassador's Successor at the Court of Austria-Hungary Will Be Named Today.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Other than admitting that Bellamy Storer, the American ambassador to Austria Hungary, is to retire immediately from his post, Secretary Root declined to make any statement tonight regarding the change in the office.

A successor to Mr. Storer will be named by the President tomorrow. The Secretary refused to say who the new American ambassador will be.

The New Nicola Building.

In an article yesterday morning descriptive of the handsome new Nicola building, in course of erection in Seventh street, the building was inadvertently placed in Seventh avenue. This error would of course be at once apparent to all who keep in touch with real estate doings in Pittsburgh. The new building which George W. Nicola is putting up is in Seventh street, just off Penn avenue, and will be one of the best types of mercantile homes in the city.

FATHER SHEEDY PREACHES HERE

Big Audience and Many Old Friends Gather in St. Patrick's Church to Hear Sermon.

SPIRIT OF THE NEW IRELAND

Father Morgan M. Sheedy, one of the most popular pastors Pittsburgh ever had, came down from his charge in Altoona yesterday to help make the religious celebration of St. Patrick's day, by St. Patrick's congregation, memorable. Father Sheedy preached in the church last night. The church seats 1,500 persons, and fully 200 others were present, scores having turned away because the building was already crowded.

Father Sheedy was pastor for 10 years of St. Mary's at the Point, and last night scores of his old parishioners heard his sermon and paid their respects afterward at the house of Father Graham, the pastor of St. Patrick's. Father Sheedy has been away from Pittsburgh several years, but he knew them all, although the younger ones have changed and the old ones grown grayer.

Bishop Canevin and Mgr. Kittel were auditors last night, the bishop sitting in the sanctuary. The bishop is going to Greensburg today and Father Sheedy will accompany him on his way to Altoona.

The title of the sermon was "Faith and Fatherland." The preacher began by telling of the early history of Ireland; how in the early middle ages the country was known as the "university of Europe;" how when the Frank overran Gaul, after the Saxon conquered Britain, destroying the vestiges of Christianity and civilization that still remained, and while Charlemagne was carrying the cross to heathen people Ireland was civilized, religious, learned, scholars, even from Italy, flocking to her shores, while material prosperity reigned among the people.

The Ireland of today was then contrasted with those countries which in earlier times learned from her. Father Sheedy showed how now in Germany, Belgium, France, a thousand anvils ring and smoke goes up from a thousand furnaces, while Ireland is as a land awaking from slavery. One thing Ireland has not lost, her religion, her piety, her morality; they are still vigorous as in the early middle ages.

Father Sheedy uttered a new thought in declaring that St. Patrick or rather the St. Patrick cult, as well as the good qualities of the Irish race, stood for the spiritual as against the materialism that prevails throughout the world outside Ireland. As Cardinal Manning has said, the influence of St. Patrick is second only to that of St. Paul.

In naming the remedy for the evils that afflict Ireland, Father Sheedy said it was not revolution, for that had been tried and failed; it was not emigration, for over-population was not the cause of the evil, as since 1848 Ireland had lost half her population and yet a few years ago the country suffered from famine.

"No," said Father Sheedy, "the remedy is not revolution; it is not emigration; it is the new spirit, the spirit of 'sein fein' that will redeem the land; 'ourselves alone,' in other words home rule, and the means used must be the means approved by the intelligent, wise, prudent Irishmen now scattered over the world."

WHY DOES GOD PERMIT EVIL?

Uniontown Pastor Says It Is the Means to Righteousness, the Supreme End of Man.

"If God is all powerful and all good, why does He permit evil? This is a question which comes to the little child and the philosopher," said the Rev. L. Walter Mason, pastor of the First Unitarian church yesterday in his sermon on "Why Sin, Pain and Death; or, The Problem of Evil." He continued:

Can this question be answered to the satisfaction of reason and faith? I believe it can. There are two kinds of evil—suffering and sin—and sin is the great evil of the world. And we ask, why did God permit it in the world? Could he not have made a world in which there was no sin? He has done so; there is no sin in the animal world. Do we wish to exchange our world for theirs? We demand a moral life. And virtue, goodness, means right choosing. If moral good, if character, if righteousness is the supreme end of man, then God must leave the door open to sin; and the door cannot be open to sin And at the same time closed against it. If pleasure were the end and object of life, then the problem of evil were indeed insoluble. But when we regard worth, goodness, righteousness, as the end of life, then sin and pain take their place as hard, repulsive, heroic means to that end, when all other means fail.

WOMAN DRINKS ACID.

Mrs. Catherine Dingman of Millvale Is Found Dead in Her Room.

Mrs. Catherine Dingman, aged 40, of Park street, Millvale, was found dead in her room yesterday. The woman, it is believed, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid. Her lips were burned and a bottle which had contained the poison was by her side. Her relatives know no reason why the woman should have killed herself.

The coroner was notified yesterday that the following persons died from heart disease: Michael Navin, aged 85, of Frazier street, Braddock, one of the oldest residents of that borough; Ferry Johnston, aged 68, of 14 Sweeney alley, and Martin Bradley, aged 28, of 1222 Railroad street, McKeesport; Vincustar Givinka, aged one, died from whooping cough at the home of her parents, 132 Almond alley.

FIGHT WITH POLICE.

Two Men Are Badly Beaten Before They Submit to Arrest.

Frank Shmski and John Wilmski were fined $10 yesterday. Shmiski and Wilmski were drinking in their boarding house, 41 Greenleaf street, Saturday evening, when three pistol shots were heard coming from the house.

Officer John Lowell upon entering the house was struck by a beer glass. Officers James Morgan and John Homan heard Lowell's signal for help and arrived in time to prevent Lowell from being badly punished. Both prisoners had to be clubbed into submission before they could be placed in the patrol wagon.

Celebrates the Day After.

Officer Owen Waters arrested Frank Zenits at Rutterglen street and Second avenue yesterday afternoon. Zenits, by way of a post St. Patricks day celebration, planted himself in the middle of the street, pulled a revolver and opened fire.

PEER IS WANTED TO ASSUME TITLE

Gets Into All Kinds of Trouble in England and Flees to This Country.

SCOTLAND YARD MAN HERE

S. E. Ellsworth, a Scotland Yard detective, arrived in Pittsburgh Sunday on an early morning train and accidentally uncovered a trail of scandal that leads to the proudest group of the English nobility, a story of a crime involving the young scion of a noble family, who ruined his career via the race track almost simultaneously with attaining the dignity of a title. The story involves the conventional dramatic properties of the novelist—a shady check transaction, a jewel robbery at the behests of blackmailers, elopement and flight to America.

Immediately upon arriving in Pittsburgh, Mr. Ellsworth registered under an assumed name in an obscure railroad hotel in Allegheny. The Scotland Yard man spent yesterday poring over hotel registers to find a parallel to the handwriting sample he carried.

He was searching Pittsburgh for the fugitive nobleman, not to arrest him, though the circumstances would warrant it, but on a private commission to awe the young man into returning to England, where the scandal has been averted by powerful relatives. This peer was located in Buffalo last week and traced to Pittsburgh, with the woman who accompanied him on his flight from England.

The story goes that this scion of a wealthy family, closely related to an American machioness, was involved in a shady check transaction six months ago, following sensational race track plunging at Epsom Downs. Failing into hands of blackmailers, who took advantage of the young man's possibilities as heir to a great house, to satisfy their continual demands, the young blood purloined a valuable set of jewels from a relative. Once on the downward path, at the first hint of exposure in social circles, rather than fear of arrest, the young man fled to America with the wife of a London petty tradesman. Since then he has succeeded, to his title, which remains unclaimed, and the Scotland Yard man is here to assure him that no scandal will follow his return or to establish his legal death to obtain the succession of title.

Evidently a tip was received last night from somewhere in the west, for Mr. Ellsworth left for Chicago on a night train.

NOT HUMAN KINDNESS MILK.

Results in One Man Being Badly Cut and He May Die of His Wounds.

Because Steve Roubles, the boarder, used all the milk in his coffee, leaving the proprietor of the boarding house, John Rudolph, without any, Rudolph slashed Roubles on the head and arm with a razor, Saturday evening, necessitating his removal to the St. Francis hospital where he lays in a serious condition. Rudolph is held to await the result of Roubie's injuries. The slash on Roubles' arm severed the muscles and pierced the brachial artery, while the injuries to his head necessitated 15 stitches. Rouble will never have control of the muscles of the of the injured arm.

LOSES SWEETHEART WHEN HE FAILS TO PAY BOARD

WHEELING, W. VA., March 18.—(Special.)—For neglecting to pay a $12.50 board bill caused the arrest in Moundsville of Charles Brooks while he was applying for a marriage license yesterday. This was followed by Justice Ruckman fining him $10 and costs and compelling him to pay the board bill. Brooks' sweetheart heard the news and refused to marry a man "so mean as to attempt to cheat a poor boarding house mistress."

Disposes of Three Cases of Assault.

Magistrate Negley had three assault and battery cases before him at No. 6 station house yesterday morning. Fred Campbell, a negro, being held in $500 bail, and W. C. Snyer in $300. Campbell is alleged to have used a pair of knuckle-dusters on G. F. Griffith. David Sisher was given 30 days to the workhouse on a like charge.

STRANGE FACTS

It seems strange that sometimes your stomach or bowels won't digest your food, no matter what you eat.

It may be the weather, or it may be just the state of your general health, but in any case there is only one certain, safe and positive method of cure, and that is the proper use of that universal remedy for all forms of dyspeptic trouble or digestive weakness, whether in stomach, liver, kidneys or bowels—Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Strange, it is, that in such little tablets, to be taken a few times a day, may lie such wondrous potential possibilities, that by their use the course of a man's whole life—yes, of the world—may be changed!

Yet, who would not appreciate the fact that if Napoleon had not been suffering from Cancer of the Stomach he would have won instead of lost—at Waterloo?

And Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets would have cured his Stomach Trouble had they then been invented, as they have cured thousands of others in the past ten years, who have suffered just as Napoleon did.

So you can readily appreciate that today, by curing all these people, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is helping to get the world's work done, by people who would do worse work if they were sick, so they must be having a great influence, in a quiet way, on the world's progress.

They may, therefore, be classed as one of the triumphs of science, amongst other discoveries, in medicine, mechanics, transportation, etc.

Let this, then, remain in your memory, a fact upon which to act when occasion requires:—

When any organ in your vast digestive machinery gets out of order, you have at your command one of the great Inventions of the age, in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, to put your machinery in order again.

By so doing you will save much useless friction, add to the energy and working possibilities of your bodily machine, and relieve yourself from suffering, disease, weakness, premature old age and death.

All this is strictly in accordance with the most modern teachings of the best scientific schools of health, hygiene and medicine, and it will be to your advantage to lay these facts to heart.

Don't hesitate. Try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets today.

HARPER'S BOOKS
The Genius
A stirring romance, by Margaret Potter, based on the life of a famous Russian composer—the sensitive, gifted son of a powerful iron-handed government despot. His career is a strange and deeply moving tale of shifting fortunes, dramatic episodes and final artistic triumphs.
The novel follows the hero into the high social and military circles to which he was born; into musical society, to which his art led him, and into that of plotting revolutionists, where he fell by chance. Each shifting scene has an intense dramatic interest, and the whole is a striking presentation of the artistic temperament in its most interesting phases.
Miss Primrose
The freshness and tender simplicity of Roy Rolfe Gilson's works have won for him a large circle of readers. Readers of "In the Morning Glow" and "When Love Is Young" know the potent charm of this perennially refreshing fiction. Mr. Gilson's portrayal of little Bertram has the same simplicity and charm that have made his former books so popular. The pictures of village life are exquisitely shaded, and Miss Primrose's romance adds a touch of sentiment and humor to a story of delightful originality.

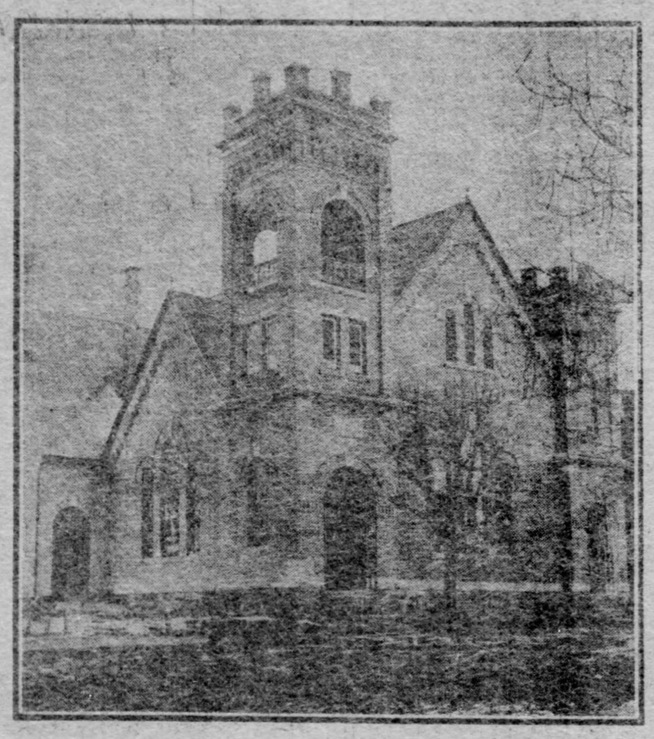
NEW CHURCH DEDICATED BY CONFLUENCE (PA.) METHODISTS



SOMERSET, PA., March 18.—(Special.)—The new $20,000 Methodist Episcopal church at Confluence, this county, was dedicated this afternoon. The dedicatory sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. C. W. Smith, editor of the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate. Addresses were delivered by Bishop Earl Cranston of Washington, D. C.; Rev. Dr. J. F. Murray, presiding elder of the McKeesport district; Rev. Dr. Silas Hartzell, presiding elder of the Blairsville district. The building is of buff brick, trimmed with Cleveland bluestone. There are two towers, the larger one over 50 feet high and a large belfry. The auditorium has a seating capacity of 600. There are art memorial windows which cost about $3,000.

"I AM THROUGH," SAYS MR. SIBLEY

Congressman Not a Candidate for Governorship or Any Other Public Office.

NO SCARCITY OF GOOD MEN

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—"All the Republicans need to do is nominate any one of the several good men who are candidates for governor and they will win this fall without any trouble. We have plenty of good material and we should have no trouble in selecting the right man," said Representative Joseph C. Sibley of Franklin, Pa., today in discussing the Pennsylvania gubernatorial situation.

"I do not expect that we will have any such majority as we had two years ago. Nor do I even anticipate the normal Republican majority, for there is no disputing the fact that there is a spirit of unrest abroad that influences some men to cut loose from their parties. Nevertheless, I am just as certain that the Republicans will carry the state as I ever was of anything.

"No, I am not a candidate for the nomination myself, though some of my friends have been kind enough to mention me in this connection. I think I can sincerely say that I would not accept the nomination if it were given me without a contest. I could not under any circumstances reconcile myself to any position where I would be bound down to an executive desk. The time was, some years ago, when I would have been glad to take the nomination, and would have welcomed the arduous duties that are incumbent upon the state's chief executive. But that time has passed.

Plenty of Able Men, He Says.

"I have no candidate for the governorship. There are a number of men who are willing to take it, and any one of whom would be capable and give an honest and fearless administration. Personally, I should like to see the candidate selected from the western part of the state, but I do not place much importance of the geographical side of the question. Why should a candidate be chosen because he lives in a certain corner of the state any more than a congressman should reside in any particular county in his district? What do we care whether the treasurer of Franklin county comes from Scrubgrass township or Pine Tree township, so long as he is an honest and efficient treasurer? The same is true of the congressman and should be true of the governor. What we want is a strong, able, courageous man, and if he comes from the western part of the state, all the better, though that should not be imposed as a condition.

"The Republican party of Pennsylvania has nothing to apologize for. Its administration has been honest and efficient. I grant that there may have been isolated cases of irregularity, but they were so few and far between that they do not affect the general proposition. Where is there a state that has done as Pennsylvania and put all of the state taxation upon the corporations? Where is there a state that has done more for its charitable and eleemosynary institutions than has Pennsylvania? No, we have nothing to apologize for, and have every reason to be proud of the party's record."

Has Enough of Congress, Too.

"It is reported that your friends have induced you to reconsider your determination to retire from congress and that you will be a candidate next fall. Is that correct?" Mr. Sibley was asked.

"My decision on that point is irrevocable," replied Mr. Sibley. "The expressions that I have had from my friends on both sides of the house and up in my district have touched me deeply and I treasure them highly, but I have no intention of changing my mind on the subject.

"There are several men up in the district who have announced themselves as candidates to succeed me. It would be manifestly unfair for me at this time to reconsider and go into the field for the nomination after giving them to understand that I would not be a candidate.

"I can say frankly that if I were to remain in public life I would prefer to stay where I am in the house of representatives. I would prefer it to a seat in the senate, the governorship or any appointive office. In fact, I have no unsatisfied political ambition whatever. There was a time when I thought I would like to enter the diplomatic field, and as a vacancy in one of the European posts was about to exist I made application for it. It became impossible, from private causes, for me to accept it, and I told the President so. Now I am determined to retire to private life."

BUT THE ONE BOX HATTIE INSISTS

Little Colored Girl Denies Taking 15 Packages of Candy from Fiscus' Drug Store.

IN JUVENILE DETENTION ROOM

Hattie Rosemond is willing to bear the proper punishment for purloining one 40-cent box of candy from Charles E. Fiscus, the Shiloh street druggist, but she and her parents and her playmates do not believe Hattie stole the 15 boxes which Fiscus has missed during the six months he has been in business. If Hattie had taken so many pound boxes, her well-wishers think, surely she must have taken some of it home or divided it among her playmates. Playmates and parents are a unit in saying that they got none of it.

The little girl, who is 11 years of age and colored, is in the juvenile detention room at the jail. Her parents, well respected residents of Rubicon street, on the advice of friends, decided to let the girl remain until Monday, as a lesson to her, although they believe the one box of sweets was all their daughter took.

The girl was held on Saturday for the juvenile court by a magistrate on complaint of Fiscus, who saw her slip the box of candy under her coat and confronted her with the fact. Fiscus said he did not wish to prosecute the child; he will be satisfied to have the case serve as a lesson to the girl herself and whichever person has taken the other 14 boxes, if somebody else did take them.

The candy was taken on Saturday, Fiscus having been on watch, candy having disapeared on another occasion when Hattie was the only person in the store, although the little girl strenuously denies having stolen before. Fiscus took her to the police station, and she broke away from him once, but he recaptured her.

Hattie's deed has pained her school teacher, Miss McKelvey. The child told the magistrate that the other children gave the teacher candy and she took the box for the teacher. The fact is, as the teacher said yesterday, the other children do not give her candy as a habit, although one little girl did take her some home-made candy as a Christmas gift and a valentine, which the teacher accepted, as she figured it really came from the mother who made it. Miss McKelvey feels that Hattie should not have put her in the light of being a general accepter of gifts from the children.

Hattie's mother will try to get her out of the detention room, for the court hearing will not be held until Friday. She has other troubles just now, for the father was hurt while getting on a car the other day. The car slowed up to let him get on and then jerked ahead, throwing him to the ground and injuring his leg, so that he cannot move about.

Mrs. Fiske's Engagement.

Mrs. Fiske has never played an engagement here in which so much interest is manifested as that in her appearance at the Belasco theater next week. "Leah Kleschna" will be enacted on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings and at the Saturday matinee "Hedda Gabler." On Wednesday evening "A Light From St. Agnes" and "The Eyes of the Heart," by Mrs. Fiske, and "Dolce," by John Luther Long, will be offered, making a triple bill for this evening, which will be repeated on Friday.

Siegel Suspects Shunk.

Felix Shunk of Petrel street, Allegheny, on complaint of J. H. Siegel, who keeps a small store at Bond and Market streets, was sent 90 days to the workhouse yesterday. Siegel says his bill was tapped Friday night and he thinks Shunk tapped it.

Post 88 to Give Entertainment.

Abe Patterson post No. 88, G. A. R. will give an entertainment for the benefit of the relief fund in its hall, South and East Diamond streets, Allegheny, next Friday evening.

The Practical Side of Little Things.

You can't compute the value, in money, of an ordinary pin—if they were scarce you'd be willing to pay considerable for a lot of them. What would you do without a thimble?—you'd soon know if they were a high-priced commodity. Magic hair-wavers are not a necessity, but they are very useful—and so it goes that the little things that are usually sold, in a great store like ours, at the Notion Counter, become things of great moment when there is a dearth of any of them.

At our Notion Counter we have every little practical invention as soon as it is put on the market, and we have complete lines of all the old standbys. Here are some of the things needed:

Pin Books, containing assorted sizes of black pins, 2 for 5c.
Dexter's Darning Cotton, brown and tan, 10c a dozen spools.
Hair Pin Cabinets, containing invisible and heavy hair-pins, 15c.
Pen Safety Pins, 5c dozen.
Ivy Flexible Nail Files, 15c each.
Large size Tomato Pin Cushions, 5c each.
Real Hair Pompadours, 50c to $2.50.
Imported Hat Pins, 25c.
Isle's finest silver cased Thimbles, 5c.
Kleinert's Dress Shields—sizes 3, 4, 5—3 pairs for 25c.
Kleinert's 25c Dress Shields, 4 pairs for 60c.
Hose Supporters of heavy elastic—pad, pin-on, sew-on—25c.
Marcel Waving Irons, 25c.
Automobile Hair Nets, 25c.
English Twilled Tape, 12-yard bolts, all sizes, 6 to 18c a bolt.
Magic Hair Wavers, 5 on card, 25c a yard; 2 on card, 10c a yard.
Puritan Dress Maker's Pins, 25c a box.

The National Steam Cooker.

The cooker that prepares a whole meal at one operation. Demonstrated in our House Furnishing Department, West Basement.

This is the cooker that cooks by steam—cooks different things in different compartments without the odor carrying from one to the other. That prevents waste of foodstuffs and the burning of the same.

To appreciate it one must see it—the demonstrator will be glad to show you just how it works.

Two sizes, $1.35 and $2.00.

Second Week of Our Sale of Dining-Room Furniture.

Judging from the sales of last week a great many families are interested in popular furniture for the dining-room. We have this popular priced furniture. Time was when we couldn't say as much, but we live and learn, and there is no better way of learning than in finding out exactly what pleases the majority of people. Pleasing the public is splendid schooling—in what will please.

On Saturday afternoon we rehearsed what was to be offered this week in the way of Dining-room Furniture, and it is scarcely necessary to take up figures again excepting to say

That we have Sideboards from $14.00 up to $400.00.
That we have Buffets from $10.00 up to $335.00.
That we have China Closets from $20.00 up to $250.00.
That we have Extension Tables from $6.50 up to $175.00.
That we have Dining-room Chairs from 65c up to $50.00.

During this sale of dining-room furniture we make a special sale of furniture for this room in sets, containing everything that is needed. These sets are composed some of three pieces, others of five pieces.

Families not desiring to have their selections delivered at present are advised that we will take care of what they choose and deliver whenever it is most satisfactory.

Monday, March 19, 1906.

Dr. Henry D. Lindsay yesterday announced to his congregation his acceptance of the presidency of the Pittsburgh College for Women. This will be gratifying news to friends of the institution who recently waged the successful campaign for an endowment. There is good reason to expect a successful career for the college under Dr. Lindsay's direction.

Ohio newspapers are quite busy at the moment comparing railroad fares between given points under the 2-cents a mile law, with those prevailing previously. The tables are instructive and tend to the conclusion that travelers in Ohio are saving some money. It is a bit early to figure on how the railroads are making out under the new order of things, but it is generally assumed they are not losing any money.

Amendments proposed by the senate committee will materially change the Ohio River & Lake Erie canal bill. The majority of these will be inserted with consent of the canal representatives, but they do not agree to the proposed prohibition of the ownership of boats and barges by the canal company. This matter ought not to cause any great friction. A separate boat operating company will solve any suggested problem.

The movement for a reorganization of the Republican city committee is symptomatic of the change that has been taking place in the party control. The people are more interested and are asserting the fact. Contests within the party are signs of vigorous health, except when carried to unseemly extremes of bitterness. When they are over there is always an accession of public confidence, because the people like to know they are running their own party affairs on the principle of majority rule.

Premier Witte's most difficult problem is to secure justice for the Jews. When the reactionaries are beaten in all else they turn to the deep-rooted popular prejudice against the Jewish race to cause trouble for the liberal leader. It may prove the premier cannot wholly prevent outrages in the Easter season, but he has made a commendably heroic struggle, and, if massacres of the Jews are attempted we anticipate some surprises for the assailants. There are more armed Jews in Russia today than ever before.

Germany is nothing if not practical and thorough in the training of her civic and state officials as well as her soldiery. It is related that a number of young assessors have just been delegated to spend from six months to a year in some of the large business houses and manufacturing concerns of the chief cities to acquaint themselves with affairs pertaining to the trades and industries of the empire. This service will serve to make them more efficient officers, and tend to give their work the most intelligent results.

Judge McClung will sit alone in the coming license court, having been chosen by his colleagues for the task. This experiment ought to prove satisfactory. It has never been apparent that progress with the list was much more rapid with two judges than with one, though there was a natural desire to have the responsibility divided. There is such pressure of court business in this county, however, that two judges cannot well be spared for the disagreeable duty in license court and the change should be of advantage in disposing of the general calendar.

Hon. Thomas Von Moltke Cooper, the erstwhile "red-headed and hopeful," accepting a nomination for reelection to the general assembly, has declared stoutly in favor of giving trolley roads the right to carry freight and the privilege of eminent domain. This may be a popular platform for the Delaware statesman to stand on, but it is incomplete. These great privileges should be accompanied by either a restriction of speed, or by a prohibition of crossings at grade. No new grade crossing should be permitted on any high speed railway, electric or steam, and all now existing should be gradually abolished.

Tonight's Meeting.

There is a prospect that city hall may be a scene of animation this evening near the hour for the meeting of select council. A large number of citizens have pledged themselves to be there, others will be apt to feel called upon to lend their presence and some may be attracted by curiosity. The more the merrier, and, the better. Director Bigelow practically concedes defeat of the railway ordinance, but he opines public sentiment has exerted no influence. The attendance should be sufficient to convince him, at least, that such a thing as public sentiment exists.

It is said the outburst against this franchise ordinance is a "tempest in a teapot." It is true much greater grants have been made without noticeable protest. It is not the proportions of the proposed gift that causes trouble in this instance, it is the importance of the underlying principle. This is just the same whether 100 feet or ten miles of streets are involved. No grants of franchises in perpetuity, nor without compensation. This is a principle worth fighting for and there is no time better than the present to establish it.

Pittsburgh has given away millions of dollars worth of franchises. For a time it hardly considered what it all meant. Now Pittsburgh knows this waste of its resources means a high rate of direct taxation for the necessary conveniences of urban life. It will have no more of it.

Elkins and Goff.

The visit of Senator Elkins of West Virginia to the White House to urge upon the President the appointment of United States Circuit Court Judge Nathan Goff to the vacancy on the supreme bench is calculated to add something to the interest in the political situation in our neighboring state of West Virginia. At present it is in a very sensitive condition, and any new strain on the tension is liable to cause a break. We shall not be surprised to hear reports impugning the motives of Mr. Elkins in presenting the name of Judge Goff for the President's consideration.

Judge Goff has served for some years back as the ghost to be materialized in senatorial contests in West Virginia to frighten the active aspirants. This use of Goff's name has always been without his consent. Since his appointment to the circuit bench by President Harrison in 1892, he has studiously avoided taking any hand in the factional political affairs of his state. He did his share of the fighting and his wish has been to round out his career in the more congenial and less strenuous lines of the high judiciary of the United States. His tastes and inclinations have led him to enjoy the preferment that has come to him, and, as a matter of course, his ambition would be further gratified should President Roosevelt select him as the successor of Justice Brown of the supreme court.

These known wishes of Judge Goff will not prevent the imputation of interested motives to Senator Elkins, but in large measure they will take away the sting. The fight for succession in the senate will have to be waged on other lines. There have been mutterings for a long time and no one need be surprised if the braves now don their paint and feathers and the war dances are resumed. Future developments in West Virginia politics will be watched with a lively anticipation of entertainment.

Half Century of Telegraphy.

Attention is called, by the Telegraph Age, to the fact that April 4 next, will be the fiftieth anniversary of the incorporation of the Western Union Telegraph Company. This announcement is important because the history of telegraphy is almost coincident with that of the corporation named. The art was known previously; there were feeble attempts to give it commercial application; but telegraphic communication had no real existence prior to the organization of the Western Union.

So closely is the whole world knit by the modern system of telegraphic wires and cables; so much has telegraphic information become a part of our daily routine it is hard to realize it has been a development of a short half century. The reminder may cause us to stop and ponder, yea, to wonder how the world got on before continents and seas were bridged and distance annihilated by the subtle current. We are sure to conclude that before Samuel Morse and Joseph Henry it must have been a slow world.

Steam transportation was far less rapid 50 years ago than now, it was really in its infancy. It may serve us today for transportation of persons; of goods and chattels; but not for the distribution of intelligence. Yet, slow as steam carriages were 50 years ago they were the most rapid means available for the diffusion of information.

A volume might be written on the growth of the Western Union corporation, alone. Its foundations were firmly laid and the structure has gone up to wonderful proportions. But the Western Union is not all nor the half of telegraphy as we know it. It is just one system of many. The telegraph is something greater and now the telephone has become another giant to keep it company.

Worth a Fight.

Councilman Roenigk's contention affecting the street railways can be properly decided in the courts. The point he makes is very interesting, but it is hardly worth while for the man without legal training to essay its settlement. Under the system of leasing, sub-leasing and expansion of capital that has been applied to the old street railways, their identity has been almost lost. It would seem there ought to be some valid claim against them under the terms of their franchise ordinances.

It may be difficult to determine what share of earnings may be fairly accredited to the old lines and what share to the new hooks and curves attacked in such bewildering profusion. There may be a question whether the city should share in the stock issues, as Mr. Roenigk claims, or in the fixed income guaranteed by the various lessees, sub-lessees and holding companies. These are queries for the courts to answer and Mr. Roenigk's contention may be as good as another to bring them up for judicial determination.

Considering the decision of the supreme court of the United States in the case of the Chicago railways, Pittsburgh may well feel encouraged to start something. There has been a long period of acquiescence in the doctrine that cities are bound hand and foot to the street railways; that vested interests in this form need not return anything for the valuable privilege enjoyed—not even good service—but the notion is passing. If Pittsburgh shall make a game fight it may gain much—it certainly can lose nothing.

An Urgent Question.

One of the most urgent questions before congress is that on the type of the Panama canal. Delay in making a decision will seriously hamper the work. The senate committee has been conducting an investigation for some weeks and shows little disposition to bring it to a conclusion. The course of the inquiry has been in almost every other direction than toward the type of the canal—the one thing that is urgent and on which report should have been made ere this.

A member of the senate committee is quoted for the information from a member of the house committee that the latter will not be content to accept the senate committee inquiry for its guidance. This implies a house committee hearing after the senate is done and threatens postponement of the whole question to the next session of congress. Such an impasse is of gravest import. The foundation for the canal work is well laid and every delay now means higher cost of the work, the loss involved in idle capital and deferring the time of completion of the enterprise.

It is a strange thing that congress cannot make a businesslike separation of the canal questions, take up the type of canal and the question of letting the work by contract, and dispose of them, leaving the controversies over administration for future settlement. Every engineer in the country and nearly every other man of affairs can appreciate the necessity for prompt action. Why cannot congress recognize the facts, lay aside selfish prejudices and do its duty?

"If the senate were twice as good as it is," said Speaker Cannon, "it would still be dangerous to add four members to it, representing Arizona and New Mexico." Here is a problem in mathematics for David Graham Phillips. How much "treason" would result?

A man who tried to commit suicide in Connecticut refuses to pay more than $10 of the $78 bill of the doctor who saved his life. Considers that a high estimate on the value of the salvage.

One statistician predicts a decrease of 90,000 in the total number of immigrants this year as compared with last. Congress should "see" him and "go" at least 250,000 better.

We are promised a fight for control of the Republican city committee. All right. The Republican party is founded on the principle of majority rule.

When Speaker Cannon told the consular reformers: "The Lord, only, knows what the house will do," he probably did not speak literally.

It looks as though Mayor Hays will not have an opportunity to veto the street railway grab, as he did the Brand resolution.

Rogers and Archbold may have asked the President to hang Tom Lawson, but the chances are they didn't.

Whoever heads the city committee, the voters have control of the party by direct vote in the primaries.

One highwayman was caught in the act in broad daylight. What is done to him may be significant.

In the matter of the governorship, many are mentioned but one will be chosen.

Secretary Taft may be hesitating from fear his weight will be too much for the bench.

When last heard from, Burton of Kansas was still drawing the pay of a senator.

Senators talking about "snakes" in the canal bill add to the gaiety of the nation.

Quiet Observations on Ways of the World

It Is Worth While Going Away Just to Have a Home-Coming.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

You should have seen the Q. O. desk after being deserted for 40 days and 40 nights.

It was a dream—of the Welsh rarebit type—and a gem of its kind. A photograph of it would have sold well, for it could have been palmed off as a photograph of the mountain on the moon, a London bookstall, a rare antique corner, or any old thing.

It's broad top was not broad enough to hold the letters, books, papers and general miscellany, but the floor was handy and kindly caught and held the overflow.

It was a sight to behold, and no mistake, but not an unpleasant one, not even to eyes that had been feasting on new and strange, and bright scenes.

* * *

The task of rescuing that desk from chaos over it, under it, and around it, seemed Herculean at first glance, and it would have been had not the chaotic stuff been so interesting.

Letters addressed in familiar hands and dated weeks agone, magazines a month old, papers of January date, books fresh from the press that had been read by others and forgotten, notices of meetings, dues, and proposed visits—all these combined presented a task at once interesting and laborious, but interesting most.

The desk looks better tonight, a whole lot better. But appearances don't count for much in a case of this kind, clearing off a desk is very different from cleaning it up.

* * *

Well, it is good to get back home anyway, even if one hasn't been greatly missed. And there is something about an old desk not unlike home ties. There may be other desks, newer and finer, and more attractive to comers and goers, and more up-to-date, but the desk across which you have held many pleasant confabs on topics ranging from kissing, to banging, and around which so many friends have foregathered from time to time, it is the best desk.

And the letters, some containing valentines, others invitations to Washington's birthday parties, and one an order to be present and appear en persona propria at a St. Patrick's day carousal up on Mt. Oliver's heights, are each and everyone a source of delight, more or less—more than enough to balance bills and annoying missives.

Really it is worth while going away, if for nothing more than the pleasure in coming home again.

* * *

When going on a trip it is not always good policy to figure your visits down to the point of fixing upon all the places, and all the people you will see, and just how much time you will devote to each. This changes a pleasure trip into a cold, cut-and-dried business proposition.

The better plan is just to go somewhere, and when you have enough of that place, and of the people, then go somewhere else, and so on and on, drifting, drifting until you are tired of drifting and really and truly want to get back home again.

Your friends will kindly volunteer to tell you before you start, where to go and what and whom to see. Treat them kindly, but make no note of what they tell you. The greatest pleasure is in finding things yourself. To follow the notes of another is far more laborious than making a new trail.

If you attempt to travel by schedule you will be hurried and rushed and feel tired and dissatisfied when you reach the end. Take your time, even you if don't travel half as far and see half as much. A tiresome trip is never pleasant to look back upon.

* * *

New York is the biggest thing on the American continent, in the town line. And it knows it, and is bold to keep flinging it up to you. That wouldn't be so very bad if it wasn't for the ugly habit it has of saying nasty things about your city, calling it a town, or maybe asking where it is on the map.

The biggest isn't always the best, never is, or at least hardly ever, which is a very comforting thought sometimes.

Big people, big in their own eyes, look at other people through the wrong end of the spyglass. This makes big people feel still bigger, but they are none the bigger in eyes that see with natural, unperverted sight.

Having become firmly installed in first place in America, New York is now looking toward first place on earth. No doubt it is in the race to stay, and with more tunnels under and bridges over East river to Long Island, subways under the Harlem to all parts of the Bronx, and a few more trolley expresses into Connecticut, it will have a fine chance to blossom out into the biggest city on earth.

* * *

But "biggest isn't best," as the kiddins say, and that is why the loyal Pittsburgher, after being subjected to numerous drafts of New York hot air, can sit complacently under our common smoke canopy and smile, the while puffing a homely, wholesome toby.

Bigger, of course New York is bigger than Pittsburgh, but we have as many, or more, good people to the square yard, and not nearly as much human rubbish and offscourings of the earth, which is something, and something that is really worth while.

And as for wealth—well, we have enough, and some to spare, with more coming at a safe and steady pace.

And when New York gets into first place on earth—if it ever does, Pittsburgh won't be out of sight, not quite.

CASUAL GLIMPSES AROUND THE CITY

Notes About People and Events In Which Pittsburghers Are Interested.

Practically all the bituminous operators of the Pittsburgh district left on afternoon and evening trains for Indianapolis yesterday, to prepare for the joint conference with the miners. About 40 representative coal men departed singly and in small groups during the day. A large party left at 9:45 p. m. on the St. Louis limited, among them George A. Magoon of the Pittsburgh and Westmoreland Coal Company and John H. Jones, president of the Pittsburgh-Buffalo Coal Company. Today the Pittsburgh bituminous operators will attend a private preliminary conference at the Claypool hotel in the conference city, which will include in its make-up operators of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Several operators last night freely expressed their hope for an agreement as well as belief in an ultimate settlement.

Jap Soldiers for U. S.

"Those who froth at the mouth about the 'yellow peril' will have further occasion to do so," said a United States army officer at the Fort Pitt last night. "When they discover that the Japanese race may soon go to make up the heterogeneous ranks of our regular army. These recruits will not come directly from the brown-skinned scrappers who have been whooping things up in Manchuria. Still they may soon include veterans of that war in our army. Japanese who have settled in Hawaii.

"I understand that the war department may soon enlist a command of Japanese, composed of those who have settled in the Hawaiian islands and become citizens. The slant-eyed gentlemen out there form a goodly part of the population and have forgotten their shrewd business interests in worship of Mars after the victories of their kinsmen in old Nippon. Many of them would like to taste service in our army and, being citizens, they may slip in like the Cuban, Porto Rican and Philippine troops.

"This innovation, even if it goes through, will not be on a scale large enough to occasion even sentimental alarm. It only goes to show that nothing is too good for your Uncle Sammy."

Scenes in the Stations.

Probably the largest single emigrant train that ever arrived in Pittsburgh will pull into the B. & O. station this morning from New York. This train will consist of 17 coaches, containing 61 foreigners each, making a total of 1,100 emigrants bound for the west. The shipment consists of Hungarians and Croatians. The train will not discharge any of its passengers here. Emigrant trains from New York have been frequent of late, but the alarming total is counter-balanced by many trains bearing hundreds of laborers who are returning to Europe with their savings. A train of 10 cars passed through last night bound for the farming regions of the west.

Leslie Bradfield, an employe of the B. & O. for the last 18 years, the last seven years as gateman at the Water street station, has resigned to engage in farming near Philadelphia. W. A. Pulket, formerly emigrant agent, who has the qualification of understanding every language, dialect, burr or brogue that any emigrant is heir to, will take his place.

Now that West Virginia may soon be defendant in a suit to be brought by Virginia to recover a part of the old Virginia debt, it is refreshing to recall that soon after the separation a committee of the West Virginia legislature, whose chairman was Jonathan M. Bennett, reported that instead of West Virginia being the creditor for a dollar, the old state owed the new state about $500,000. This was based upon the fact that since the days of the revolution almost, that part of the state which is now West Virginia, had been paying taxes for improvements in the eastern part of Virginia.—Clarksburg (W. Why Russia Cant Complain.

Russians must not complain because more civilized nations look upon Russian officials, as a class, with horror, and sympathize with the enemies of the Russian government. Theology Not Merely for the Schools

Study of Religion of Interest to More People Than We Suppose.

By A MINISTER.

A letter has come to the study table of the Minister from a lady who made inquiry concerning the column on "Frauds in Religion," which she read in The Gazette last Monday morning. She was pleased to call it "a Christian-like defense of the old theology." She said some other kind things which are deeply appreciated, but the main interest grows out of her reference to theology.

It is one of the signs of the times that this word from which people used to flee can be used in the newspapers. The average of intelligence is making wonderful strides. Only a little while ago most persons would have said that as for theology they would have none of it. But now they are seeing that as soon as a man begins to think about his religious life he is a theologian. That is, theology is simply a study of religion—the science of religion, as it is called.

No one can claim to be intelligently religious without following some sort of theology. Since everybody is born a religious being, theology, or the beliefs of religion, is really the most engaging subject in the world.

Of course, religion is not the same as beliefs about religion. The stars are not the same as the science of the stars, or astronomy. Religion is the same from age to age, and so are the stars.

But the science of the stars and the science of religion change. For example, the Ptolemy theory was held for ages in astronomy. The earth, said Ptolemy, was the center about which revolved the sun, stars and planets. In the sixteenth century Copernicus gave the world the theory that the sun was the body about which all the other bodies moved. The Copernican theory is held now all over the world. But that has made absolutely no difference in the stars and planets themselves. Without regard to theories and even scientific accuracies, "the heavens declare the glory of God" as of old.

There need be no alarm about the "new theology" or the "old theology." Theologies come and go, but God and religion are unchangeable for ever and ever. Copernicus with his "new" astronomy did not put a single star to flight, and Ptolemy and his "old" astronomy dimmed never a ray of heavenly light. No power can alter the plans of God.

Of course, the seeking of truth is valuable and necessary. But it must not be supposed that because people do not all think alike that God is confusion, and the natures of His children in conflict with one another. There is no demand that we shall be in immediate agreement. The differences that exist are none of them without reason. Nowadays there has never been a breach in thought so wide as to justify estrangement and enmity. And it is a great pity that so much intolerance has come down through the ages of Christendom.

There is one great rule for peace and success in thinking about religion. More than one great university has adopted the essence of it as a motto. It is this: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." This is the standard of the Master.

Mark you, He does not say "Ye shall know the Bible," though He does enjoin searching of the Scripture. He does not urge "Know the church," albeit the church has been the one channel through which have dowed the great truths of religion. He does not even arbitrarily command that men shall know Him. He preferred to set before them His life and His ministries as satisfactory evidence of His saying, "I am the truth."

Jesus's was the way of tolerance, the way of reason, the way adopted by the best men and the wisest in the world.

There is no denying that there are some things which will never get into theology, because they are too deep for men to think about. But Jesus never urged anything that was contrary to reason. Some things men cannot understand, but they do not on that account throw them out. There is wireless telegraphy, for example. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson illustrates the limits of reason by asking the question: What would a man think, dwelling in the region of the equator, and knowing nothing of the formation of ice, if you should tell him that men can walk on the polar seas?

It is not blameworthy of the churches that they have not succeeded in knowing it all, all in religion. If they have a plentiful spirit of tolerance with their not altogether successful striving for the truth, happy and blessed are they. Neither the churches nor the scientists can afford to be inconsiderate of each other. There are some men of great learning who, because there are certain works and sayings of Jesus which their minds have not seen in life today, believe there is nothing in them but oriental myth. They should have a care. That was the habit of the Pharisees when Jesus's new religious standards were set before them.

Some things no doubt are held too long on account of the prejudice of Christian believers. But on the whole it is not superstition which preserves the old beliefs of religion and the Bible. Doctrines which are of no value vanish away under the searching light of truth.

✦ ✦ ✦

A necessary work of destroying things of no worth is nevertheless going on at this very hour. Old ideas in religion, like old theories in astronomy, give way to new, not because they are old, but because they are not true. We must respect such work.

But when men come to think of it, breaking down is not so important as building up. Men get $1.50 a day for demolishing old and outworn buildings, but those who give of their skill in rearing larger and stronger structures get $4 or $5 a day. The great benefactors have been those who have come not to destroy but to fulfill.

The tendency is to hammer away at things which are wrong. But when everything is done in this direction all that men see is the ugly debris of destruction.

The way to better ideas in religion is not to overcome evil by hating the false, but to overcome evil with good by loving the true.

✦ ✦ ✦

Now all forms of nature tell us that growth is a sure sign of life. When growth ceases, life is at an end. The mind grows, and of course one's thoughts grow. That is the fact about truth. When the mind is closed to new truth it is a dead mind.

So instead of men troubling themselves because the "good old Gospel" is changed they ought to be happy. It isn't the Gospel which is different, but modern ideas about the Gospel are different. The love of Christ is still the greatest thing in the world. However, men have not childish ideas, but men's ideas about love.

Many persons remember the Philosopher Fiske's childhood conception of God. He was a great universal bookkeeper, with a long beard. He sat at a desk in the heavenly abode and kept marking down the acts of the people on the earth.

There was certainly the greatest truth in that bald idea. But where is the man who would so picture the all-seeing and righteous and judging God? God has not changed and become a spirit in our few years. It is we who have become spiritual and new discern Him with our spirits.

In other words, the great progress which the world has made in knowledge has become a great help to the soul. It could not be otherwise, for the one way to be a free spirit is to seek the truth. Piety and learning are inseparable. The great leaders of religion have been men of magnificent intellect.

✦ ✦ ✦

God has given men of limited minds, however, reason for contentment. Not many men can be great in learning, as the word goes. But God has told us that not out of the head, but "out of the heart are the issues of life."

Every man according to his ability should open his mind to truth, and learn forever. But if his thoughts on religion are not very accurate or advanced he may nevertheless heed the counsel, "Quit you like men."

That will save him.

CULLED FROM VARIOUS SOURCES.

Early Kansas Fabrications.

The Kansas City Journal quotes from the files of the Kanopolis Journal, Kansas, of 1887, merely to show that there were artists in those days in the art of exaggeration. After claiming that the region around Kanopolis was the site of the Garden of Eden, the Journal points out the modern wonders of the neighborhood: "Sunflowers can be seen that will make a dozen fence rails and a whole lot of cordwood. Potatoes grow so big that they can only be roasted by building a fire on the windward side and when one section is done waiting for the wind to change. Cabbage leaves are used for —circus tents, and hoop poles are made out of timothy stalks. Jack rabbits grow as large as horses and the tail feathers of a wild goose make excellent fence posts. The wheat is larger than the corn in most states and it is dangerous to plant rye, as the roots have to be grubbed out before the ground can be plowed again.

"A man planted a turnip one mile from the railroad last summer and the company sued him for obstructing the track before the middle of July. Pie plant makes excellent bridge timber and pumpkins are in demand this winter for houses and barns. Pea pods are used as ferryboats on the Arkansas river and onion seeds are much sought after for walling wells and terrace work. Rye straw, properly connected, makes superior pipe for drainage and the husks of the berry, where provided with rockers, make unique baby cradles. North of Kanopolis are several lakes of strained honey, and we often have showers of rosewater and cologne in the early spring. This settlement of Western Kansas is restoring Eden to its primitive glory and men to their first estate."

How Addicks Was Amused.

J. Edward Addicks gave a severe scare to William Garner, a barber at Smyrna, Del., the other day. After being seated in the chair the talkative worker, who did not know his customer, proceeded to "roast" Addicks' party in general and Addicks in particular.

The barber declared that Addicks had "fooled the people" before and that they would not be caught again.

Addicks smiled and queried: "You mean Senator Addicks?"

"Senator, no," replied the barber. "He is all in now."

The incident thoroughly aroused Addicks, and upon departing he said: "My name is Addicks. I am the bad man you were describing. Hope we part friends."

The barber dropped into a chair.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Why He Passed the Bishop.

Bishop Kemper of Kansas was the victim of a hold-up one night when he was the only passenger. The driver told the road agent, who had covered him with a six-shooter, that his only passenger was a bishop. "Well," said the robber, "wake up the old man. I want to go through his pockets." When the bishop was aroused from a sound slumber and realized the situation, he gently remonstrated with the men behind the gun. He said: "Surely you would not rob a poor bishop. I have no money worth your while, and I am engaged in the discharge of my sacred duties." "Did you say you were a bishop?" asked the road agent. "Yes, just a poor bishop." "What church?" "The Episcopal church." "The hell you are! Why, that's the church I belong to. Driver, you may pass on."—Harper's Magazine.

Very Obliging.

Senator Tillmen was accusing a political leader of overbearing, arbitrary methods.

"He goes too far," said the senator. "He is like the militia captain they used to have in Concord.

"This man came to Concord with a war record, and got a captain's appointment in the militia.

"He was a martinet. The first day he reviewed his company he examined every hair on their heads, every button on their coats. It was an ordeal for them.

"On the whole the captain was pleased with his inspection. One thing dissatisfied him, though. His men all had clean-shaven upper lips. Some had side whiskers, some had mutton chops, some had goatees, some had patriotic chin beards. There was not one who had a mustache.

"The captain complimented his company in a short speech, and concluded by saying:

"'Only one thing is lacking to make a crack, martial-looking company of you—mustaches. I want every man Jack of you to raise a mustache.'

"At this order the men looked at one another, and a young farmer, stepping out from the ranks, saluted and said:

"'What color will you have them, sir?'"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Everbody Laughed.

Representative Payne of New York was guilty of perpetrating a pun in the house recently. He asked for the re-enrollment of a bill concerning a dam, which he explained had in some way been lost.

Mr. Alexander of New York asked if it was not a bill which had been sent to the President and returned.

"Oh, no," replied Mr. Payne, "it is not that dam bill, it is another dam bill."

The house laughed and Mr. Payne laughed.—New York Sun.

The Right Interpretation.

Somebody suggests that the boy who ran away from home because he didn't get enough pie has the instincts of a great politician. Wrong. The politician would have stayed at home, stolen the pie and made his mother think she had eaten it herself.—Philadelphia North American.

THE PENALTY.

He who ascends to mountain-tops shall find
The loftiest peaks most wrapt in clouds and snow;
He who surpasses or subdues mankind,
Must look down on the hate of those below.
Though high above the sun of glory glow,
And far beneath the earth and ocean spread,
Round him are icy rocks, and loudly blow
Contending tempests on his naked head,
And thus reward the toils which to those summits led.

DR. LINDSAY WILL TAKE PRESIDENCY

Pastor of North Presbyterian Church to Be Head of Pennsylvania College for Women.

STATEMENT TO CONGREGATION

In concluding the morning services at the North Presbyterian church yesterday, the Rev. Dr. Henry D. Lindsay announced his decision to accept the presidency of the Pennsylvania College for Women. Dr. Lindsay will give up his pastorate and become the head of the college within a few months. In explaining his position to his flock Dr. Lindsay said:

"My dear friends of the North church, I am to announce to you this morning that I have decided to accept the presidency of the Pennsylvania College for Women. To this position, as most of you know, I was recently elected by the trustees of the college. At the proper time I will ask you to unite with me in requesting the presbytery of Allegheny to dissolve the pastoral relation existing between us, that I may turn to another work.

"To make this announcement is the only hard duty I have been called to perform since I became your pastor 12 years ago. In every possible way you have made my ministry easy and delightful. Your responsiveness has made preaching a pleasure. Your constant kindness and cordial co-operation have taken the irksomeness away from pastoral work. You have cheerfully given me time and opportunity for service outside the congregation to the city and to the church at large, so that it is really through my connection with you that this call to another work has come to me.

Responded to Every Appeal.

"You have promptly responded to every appeal I have made to you, giving your money, your sympathy, your influence, your time, and your service to that cause which has had the commendation of your pastor. Indeed, there are few benevolent institutions in this community or in the Presbyterian church which have not been aided either with money or workers by the North church. It goes without saying that my salary has been regularly paid, but gratitude prompts me to remember that for the past ten years the trustees, with your consent, have given me much more than the promised salary. In every way in which it is possible for a people to show loyalty and love to a pastor, you have been kind to me, and I love you with all my heart. There is the best of feeling among the members of the congregation, and no cloud has appeared on our horizon until this call came to your pastor to become the president of the college.

"Why, then, should it not be turned aside, and this most delightful pastoral relation continue? For just one reason. It seems to me right to accept the college presidency. After long and earnest and prayerful consideration, I think the path of duty leads me to this work. One may be mistaken as to what his duty is, but it is never a mistake for a man to do what he thinks is right.

Believes in Greater Pittsburgh.

"I believe in the Greater Pittsburgh. Not simply in the larger city which will be in name when legal quibbles are out of the way, but in the great city which is in reality today, for Pittsburgh is the center of an unusually large and intelligent population. I have come to love this city where I have had a long and delightful pastorate. I know its spirit and its people, and both are very attractive to me. I believe in the true education of women—that the time is coming and now is when the father will make the same provision for the education of his daughter that he does for his son. What the education of a girl should be is a question which cannot be discussed here, except to say that her spiritual nature should be as carefully developed as is either her mind or body, if she is to be the ideal wife and mother of the future. I expect to be just as truly a preachr and a pastor, though along somwhat different lines.

"I believe in the future of the college, that it stands on the threshold of a large success. That the people of this community should have given nearly $200,000 during the past year to pay its indebtedness and endow it for greater effectiveness, shows a sincere interest and an abiding faith in its future. I have been, for a number of years, a member of the board of trustees, and know the earnest purpose and the self sacrificing devotion which some of them have given to the college.

Persuaded By Retiring President.

The retiring president, Dr. Martin, is a close personal friend, and he has most earnestly pleaded with the board of trustees in urging this position upon me, promising me all the help it is in his power to give. I have been a member of the committee on faculty, which has appointed the teachers, and they too express the hope that I will be the president of the college. I do not feel that I can decline what seems to me a duty.

A change of pastors is always a trial for a church, but this North church, I am persuaded, can make such a change without serious loss. Your elders and trustees are wise and earnest men, who will only consider the best interests of the entire congregation. The people are loyal to each other and to the church. The condition of the church, from a spiritual, social and financial standpoint is exceptionally good. Your love to me will be best shown by your devotion to this church.

"In the meantime, it is a comfort to me to know that this separation will not occur for some months. And when it does come, I will not be far away from you, and I will not be the pastor of another people. When you call a pastor, he will occupy this pulpit and make his own place in your hearts, but I am quite sure he will never take my place and that our love for one another will be abiding.

Rev. J. Allison Platts Is Elected Pastor of Presbyterian Church at Bellefonte.

The Rev. J. Allison Platts, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church of Allegheny, was elected pastor of the Presbyterian church of Bellefonte, Pa., yesterday. Mr. Platts was elected to succeed the Rev. Dr. J. W. Laurie. He was one of eight candidates. It is stated he will accept just as soon as the formal call reaches him and will be installed in his new pastorate on May 1.

News of his election as pastor of the

The Rev. J. Allison Platts.

Bellefonte church reached Mr. Platts yesterday while ill in bed. He has been ill since last Tuesday, threatened with pneumonia.

Mr. Platts was called to the Central Presbyterian church in 1903 and on the first of next May will have completed a pastorate of just three years. He succeeded the Rev. D. M. Skilling, who accepted a call to a St. Louis church. During Mr. Platts' pastorate the Central congregation sold its property at the corner of Lacock and Anderson streets, where it had worshiped for many years, and built the new $40,00 structure at Sandusky and North Diamond streets, which was dedicated two years ago. Mr. Platts has been in the ministry 18 years. His last charge was at Mingo Junction, O.

Sandusky Street Baptist Church Elects the Rev. A. J. Bonsall.

At a meeting of the congregation of the Sandusky Street Baptist church of Allegheny yesterday morning the Rev. A. J. Bonsall was formally elected pastor. He succeeds the late Rev. Dr. B. F. Woodburn, whose assistant he was for almost two years. During the long illness of Dr. Woodburn, Mr. Bonsall conducted the services and attended to all pastoral duties. Prior to his death Dr. Woodburn expressed a desire that Mr. Bonsall succeed him, and there were no other candidates for the position.

Mr. Bonsall came from Beaver to the Sandusky Street church and is decidedly popular. At a meeting yesterday it was decided to increase Mr. Bonsalls salary from $1,500 to $2,000 annually.

Frightful Scenes Attend the Sanguinary Orders of Provincial General Alikanoff.

PEASANTS ARE RETALIATING

SUKHUM, TRANSCAUCASIA, March 18.—The manner in which Gen. Alikanoff has crushed the revolution in the government of Kutaisov, razing towns, executing ringleaders of the movement and driving sympathizers with it to the mountains, has produced such resentment that acts of terror and the throwing of bombs at the troops are frequent. Gen. Alikanoff has proclaimed and is enforcing martial law with terrible rigor, and revolutionaries or other persons caught with arms are immediately shot.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 18.—The workmen in the St. Petersburg factories and mills today elected delegates to the assembly which will choose representatives to the municipal congress. This congress will be composed of representatives of all classes and will elect members to the national assembly. The elections passed off quietly, even those at the Putiloff works, where the men are regarded as among the most radical, and practically all the workmen participated.

The government is using the most repressive measures to stop the agitation for a strike of railroad men and telegraphers. A meeting of the former at Rostoff-on-Don was today surrounded and invaded by Cossacks, who fired into the assemblage, killing two persons and wounding eight.

CARTSOFF, RUSSIA, March 18.—The circulation of false reports that the pensions of widows of soldiers who fought in the Russo-Japanese war had been withdrawn caused a mob to besiege the mayoralty building and demand a distribution of money, threatening otherwise to burn the city. Cossacks and troops of infantry dispersed the mob.

ASKABAD, RUSSIA, March 18.—News received here from Seistan, in eastern Persia, say that a pest is spreading, that the populace is becoming panic-stricken and that many persons are fleeing.

POLTAVA, RUSSIA, March 18.—Anti-semetic pamphlets have been widely distributed in this city and throughout the province.

SCHENLEY'S ROADS FULL OF SLEIGHS

Ideal Winter Conditions Result in Merry Scenes in the Pittsburgh Parks.

WAITING FOR FLOWER SHOW

Sleighing, that most popular of winter diversions, was enjoyed by hundreds of Pittsburghers yesterday, and the merry tinkle of the bells in Schenley park recalled to many the good old days of real winter with all the enjoyments that go with it. The roadbed in the park was never in better condition for sleighing, and toward evening when cold made it icy the number of sleighs increased, making it easily the banner day of the year for the sport. It goes without saying that the hearts of a number of Pittsburgh's liverymen in the vicinity of the park were gladdened, as well as their purses fattened.

Although yesterday was an ideal winter day, the crowds that visited the parks were small, not exceeding last Sunday's to a great extent. Pittsburgher's are now waiting for the Easter flower show in the Phipps conservatories.

The lateness of Easter this year necessitated the retarding of many flowers, which, with bright, sunny days, have a tendency to bloom early. This was done expecting the induction of spring at the usual time, and its tardiness has caused the superintendent of the conservatories no end of worry.

The eleventh season of free organ recitals in Carnegie Music hall closed yesterday afternoon. The large auditorium was filled. William Middelschulte of Chicago, the organist, showed a mastery of the instrument that delighted the audience. His rendition of the "Andante and Finale, op. 137," composed by Rheinberger and arranged for organ by Mr. Middelschulte, was especially pleasing.

While the visitors to the Highland park zoological gardens were not equal to the usual number at this season of the year, they greatly outnumbered those of the last few Sundays. A number of people enjoyed the sleighing in the park, the only drawback being the great difficulty in getting there, owing to the bareness of the streets in the city.

PROMINENT MINISTERS ASSIST IN EXERCISES

The Aspinwall United Presbyterian and Crafton Evangelical Lutheran Churches Are Dedicated.

The new brick and stone church of the United Presbyterian congregation at Aspinwall, completed at a cost of nearly $25,000 was dedicated yesterday. A special prayer service at 9:30 o'clock was followed at 11 o'clock by the dedicatory sermon, delivered by the Rev. Dr. J. K. McClurkin, pastor of the Shadyside United Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh. A fraternal service was held at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, the speakers being the Rev. S. E. Irwin, pastor of the Etna United Presbyterian church; the Rev. Dr. J. W. Witherspoon, secretary of the Freedman's board, and others. The evening sermon was by J. Campbell White, general secretary of the Men's league of the United Presbyterian church. Special music was rendered at each service by the choir. The congregation, organized 18 years ago with 26 members, now has an enrollment of 206. The Rev. Dr. J. A. Duff is pastor.

St. Matthew's Evangelical Lutheran church, Steuben avenue, Crafton, which cost $8,500, was also dedicated yesterday. The dedicatory sermon was preached in the morning by the Rev. Dr. David R. Bausslin, of Springfield, O., president of the general synod. The Rev. S. T. Nicholas of Middletown, Pa., organizer of the church, spoke at the afternoon service, and in the evening the sermon was delivered by the Rev. William J. Bucher of Braddock, president of the Pittsburgh synod. The congregation was organized in September, 1902, and has a membership of 58. The Rev. W. E. Brown is pastor.

KIRBY'S HAND FALLS HEAVILY ON WOMEN PRISONERS

Alleged keepers of disorderly houses received heavy sentences at the Central station hearings. Bertha Patterson was fined $50 and costs and five other women and as many men $5 and costs. Louisa Anderson was given a like fine, while $10 and costs was the portion of three girl companions and six men. Bessie Hale was fined $100 and costs and Mary Black, a visitor was let down with half that amount. Louisa Morris was given six months in the workhouse for vagrancy, and Mary Jones will serve 30 days for being in the society of a negro.

KIRSCHLER BUSY WITH ARMY OF JOB-HUNTERS

Future Mayor of Allegheny Receives 9,000 Applications for 1,300 City Positions.

Mayor-elect Charles F. Kirschler of Allegheny returned Saturday night from Atlantic City and will remain at home until he is inducted into office on April 2. He is having a foretaste of the troubles of a mayor where there are a score of applicants for almost every position in his gift. There are close to 1,300 city positions in Allegheny and already Mr. Kirschler has received about 9,000 applications. In addition to these, scores of personal pleas for jobs are being made. It is pretty well understood that Mr. Kirschler will make a cleaner sweep in April than Mayor Wyman did three years ago, and apparently many persons think every one of the 1,300 city employes is to be discharged.

With a few exceptions the entire police force worked for Kirschler, and almost the same can be said of the firemen, so that the public safety department will remain almost as it is so far as the subordinate positions are concerned.

Public works department employes, following instructions from Director McIlvain, got on the wrong side in February and a lot of them will go. In the water bureau there will likely be a number of new faces. Alexander Bennis, superintendent of the bureau of water, will undoubtedly give up the official ghost the day Kirschler takes office. Superintendent James Gray, of the bureau of water assessments, will be retained. In the assessors' office Robert Beck and William Manning will hold their jobs. Chief Assessor O. A. Galley, was the Logan leader in the Fifteenth ward during the campaign and his finish is imminent. About the others in the office there is some doubt.

John K. Hunter will likely remain as chief of the fire bureau and Peter Schatzmann as assistant chief. In the city light plant there will be some changes and also in the clerical force of the charities department.

Mr. Kirschler says he will not announce his appointments until the morning of April 2, when he becomes mayor.

NOT AT SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Miss Lewis Attends Church Services, Morning and Evening.

Miss Martha E. Lewis, secretary of the Sunday school of the Mary S. Brown Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, against whom a charge of owning stock in the Pittsburgh Brewing Company has been made, did not attend the session of Sunday school yesterday. A. D. Salee, one of the teachers, who brought the charge against her, acted on the suggestion of the pastor, the Rev. Dr. C. V. Wilson, and gave his class over to a substitute. He will likely not resume his old position until after the disposition of the matter in which he is concerned.

Miss Lewis was present at both the morning and evening church services.

Best Known Remedy for Summer Coughs and Colds.
I had a severe summer cold which settled on my lungs, and I tried various kinds of cough remedies, none of which did me any good until I finally tried one bottle of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey, which relieved me at once. Please accept my thanks for this most valuable remedy. Very resp'y, Henry Franke, 616 Pulaski St., Little Rock, Ark.

DISTURBING DEVELOPMENTS UNSETTLES STOCK MARKET

Extreme Dullness Rather Than Price Declines Was the Feature of the Week—Wall Street Complaining of Stock Transfer Tax.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 18.—Considering the character of certain specific developments calculated to disturb sentiment, and the already unsettled condition of the public mind, the speculative security market gave a very good account of itself. A few issues, for reasons already apparent, broke severely and the general list was irregular and lower, but when the nature of the news itself and the influential character of some of the securities affected are taken into account the net results on general prices were inconsiderable.

Extreme dullness rather than price decline was the feature of the interval. This was as true of bonds as of stocks, and possibly more so, for the bond market, so far as activity is concerned, has not been as apathetic as at present since the "indigestible security" period of about three years ago. The tendency, then, is apt to be a better index of prevailing sentiment than in the speculative division. Stocks, so far as speculation is concerned, have degenerated into a mere traders' market, which is probably one reason why Wall street hears again such bitter complaints of the iniquities of the stock transfer tax. When the brokers had customers to charge with the tax little was heard of its operation.

Business has shrunk to slender proportions, but it is noted that if the general public shows little or no disposition to buy, it does not seem greatly disposed to sell the general range of stock at this level. Except for such issues as were specifically influenced by some adverse development—and the most influential of these was Consolidated Gas, Chicago Union Traction and Missouri Pacific—there was little real liquidation in the market. Apparently Wall street is waiting upon its developments to better shape its course.

Generally such a market as now prevails in Wall street works toward a lower level. Naturally, the periods of dullness in an intermediate season afford an opportunity for persons to study the general situation to better advantage than when activity is teeming. Unquestionably much greater consideration is now being given to fundamental factors—the monetary situation, industrial conditions, general tendencies, and harvest prospects—than in the past. So far as the winter sown crops are concerned, that is seasonable and is a feature of this time of the year, though the definite outcome cannot be determined as early as this.

It seems rather peculiar that with many evidences of great industrial activity at hand the question should be raised in some quarters as to whether or not the edge has been taken off the business boom. Railway earnings were never better and the government trade statement of February attests the greatest volume of international business in the country's history. Wonderfully favorable as was the report of the United Steel Corporation that deals with the past and deals rather with what the company accomplished and what the results of the iron and steel industry were from a few months to a year ago. Highly satisfactory and encouraging as it is, it is not to be classed with the other features as an index of more immediate conditions or of the near future.

Of course the turning point in industrial activity comes at one or the other of its extremes, from the point of lowest depression if in the uptack, and from the crest of the wave if on the decline. There may be a false start, which deceives at the one end, or there may be only a dip in the wave at the other, which is indicative of a lull rather than of a severe recession. Indications are by no means wanting, despite the favorable features already mentioned, that in certain lines the edge has been taken off of industrial activity. Whether this is only a lull or whether it marks a more considerable contraction no one at this time can tell, but since it has manifested itself in such an important particular as a falling in bank clearances, and in such barometric industries as iron and steel and textile fabrics it is a development that will bear careful watching.

It would certainly be strange, indeed, if influences that have seriously curtailed the purchase and sale of investment securities and have driven the public out of speculative stocks, caused some liquidation, some extensive stock declines and turned the speculative market into a trading affair among professionals, should not find some reflection elsewhere. Wall street cannot separate itself from the country and from general industry, and the country and its industrial activities cannot divorce themselves from the country's financial center. Wall street has been "the only blue spot in the country" time and again, but there never yet was a time when Wall street was blue that there was not a reason for it, and never a time that the country failed to realize that there was a real basis for the blueness in the end.

The various trade authorities who have called attention to and commented upon the decreases in bank clearances, the slight falling off in pig iron production, the concessions made in price for some articles, the disposition to withhold large orders in others, the cuts in price of bleached cotton goods, the revision on a lower basis of napped cottons, the reported bad turn in the silk industry, and the like, minimize the force of these developments. This was precisely what was done also by the same persons at the outset of the business contraction in 1903.

SATURDAY BRINGS NO CHANGES IN MARKET

Grain Receipts Are Larger Than at Any Time During the Past Ten Days.

Saturday, as usual, showed no changes in the local markets. The early morning demand was good, but in the afternoon business was dull. On account of the lack of demand and the supply, prices remained firm, and no changes were noticeable in anything. It is predicted that the early week will see a tendency downward of some things, partly on account of the coming of spring and partly because of the arrivals from the southern markets of new and fresh vegetables that heretofore have been supplied principally from the Florida and California markets. Large receipts are expected early in the week, but there is no probability that the butter, egg and cheese market will be affected. Flour shows some tendency to be weaker, but as yet there has been no change made in the price of any brands.

HAY AND GRAIN.
Receipts.

Receipts bulletined yesterday were: Pennsylvania, 20 cars oats, 3 cars corn, 5 cars feed, 2 cars rye, 18 cars hay. Baltimore & Ohio, 3 cars hay, 2 cars oats, 1 car corn. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 5 cars oats. The market during the week has been much improved over the previous week. Prices had gotten so low that shippers directed their goods to other markets. The result was that every commodity became scarce with prices advancing. Corn continues scarce. There is not enough now coming in for requirements.

IN PERIL OF HIS LIFE

BY EMILE GABORIAU

Author of "THE MYSTERY OF ORCIVAL," "FILE NO. 113," Etc.

"Certainly, doctor. And mamma, when she heard it, rose up straight, and lowered her head, like one who listens. Almost immediately afterward, the second shot was fired, and mamma raised her hands to heaven, and cried, 'Great God!' And then she went out very quickly."

"You have dreamed all that, Martha," said Dr. Seignebos.

"But the governess here interposed. 'The young lady did not dream it,' she said. 'I also heard the shots fired; and I had just opened the door of my room to know what was going on, when I saw madam cross the landing swiftly, and rush down stairs.'

"Oh! I do not doubt it," said the doctor, in the most indifferent tone he could assume, "the circumstance is very unimportant."

But the little girl was bent upon finishing her story. "When mamma left," she continued, "I was very frightened, and sat up in bed to listen. Soon I heard a noise I did not know—cracking and snapping of wood, and then cries at a distance. I got more frightened, jumped out of bed, and ran to open the door. But I nearly fell down, there was such a cloud of smoke and sparks. Still I did not lose my head. I woke my little sister, and tried to get onto the staircase, when Cocoleu rushed in like a madman, and took us both out."

"Martha," cried a voice from the house, "Martha!"

"The child stopped short at once. 'Mamma is calling me,' she said. And, dropping another little courtesy, she added 'Good-bye, gentlemen!'"

She had disappeared; and Dr. Seignebos and M. Folgat were still standing on the same spot, looking at each other in utter distress. "We have nothing more to do here," said M. Folgat.

"No, indeed! Let us make haste and get back; for perhaps they are waiting for me. You must breakfast with me."

They went away very much disheartened, and so absorbed in their defeat, that they forgot to return the salutations with which they were greeted in the street—a circumstance carefully noticed by several watchful observers.

When the doctor reached home, he showed the advocate into his study, and asked—"And now what do you think of your adventure?"

M. Folgat looked completely undone. "I cannot understand it," he murmured.

"Is it possible the countess could have schooled the child to say what she told us?"

"No."

"And her governess?"

"Still less. A woman of that character trusts nobody. She struggles, she triumphs or succumbs alone."

"Then the child and the governess have told us the truth"

"I am convinced of that."

"So am I. Then she had no share in her husband's murder?"

"Alas!"

M. Folgat did notice that his "Alas!" was received by Dr. Seignebos with an air of triumph. The practitioner had taken off his spectacles, and, wiping them vigorously, observed, "If the countess is innocent, Jacques must be guilty, you think? Jacques must have deceived us all, then?"

M. Folgat shook his head. "I pray you, doctor, do not press me just now. Give me time to collect my thoughts. I am bewildered by all these conjectures. No, I am sure, M. de Boiscoran has not told a falsehood. The countess has been his mistress. No, he has not deceived us; and on the night of the crime he really had an interview with the countess. Did not Martha tell us that her mother had gone out? And where could she have gone, if not to meet M. de Boiscoran?"

He paused a moment. "Oh, come, come!" said the physician, "you need not be afraid of me."

"Well, it may be possible, that after the countess left M. de Boiscoran, Fate stepped in. Jacques has told us how the letters which he was burning suddenly blazed up with such fury that he was alarmed. Who can tell whether some burning fragments may not have set a straw rick on fire? You can judge yourself. On the point of leaving the place, M. de Boiscoran sees this fire ignited. He hastens to put it out. His efforts are unsuccessful. The fire increases step by step; it lights up the whole front of the chateau. At that moment the Count de Claudieuse comes out. Jacques thinks he has been watched and detected; he sees his marriage broken off, his life ruined, his happiness destroyed; he loses his head, runs, fires, and flies instantly. Thus one might explain his missing the count the first aim, and also the fact that the gun was loaded with small shot, a circumstance which seems to preclude the idea of premeditated murder."

"Good God!" cried the doctor. "What, what have I said?"

"Take care you never repeat it! The suggestion you make is so fearfully plausible, that, if it becomes known, no one will ever believe you when you tell the truth."

"The truth? Then you think I am mistaken?"

"Most assuredly," and fixing his spectacles on his nose, Dr. Seignebos added: "I never admitted that the countess had fired at her husband. I now see that I was right. She did not perpetrate the crime herself; but she instigated it."

"Oh!"

"She would not be the first woman who has acted in this manner. What I imagine is that the countess had made up her mind and arranged her plan before meeting Jacques. The murderer was already at his post. If she had succeeded in winning Jacques back, her accomplice would have put away his gun, and quietly gone to bed. As she could not induce Jacques to give up his marriage, she made a sign, the fire was lighted and the count was shot."

The young advocate did not seem fully convinced. "In that case, there would have been premeditation," he objected; "and how, then, came the gun to be loaded with small shot?"

"The accomplice had not sense enough to know better."

Seeing the doctor's drift, M. Folgat started up—"What?" he said, "always Cocoleu?"

Dr. Seignebos tapped his forehead with his finger, and replied: "When an idea has once made its way in there—there it remains fixed. Yes; the countess had an accomplice, and that accomplice was Cocoleu; and if he has no sense, you see the wretched idiot at least carries his devotion and discretion very far."

"If what you say is true, doctor, we shall never get the key of this affair; for Cocoleu will not confess."

"Don't swear to that. There is a way——" He paused, being interrupted by the sudden entrance of his servant, who announced that there was a gendarme down stairs with a man who ought to be sent to the hospital at once.

"Show them up," said the doctor. And, while the servant went to do his bidding, Dr. Seignebos added: "And here is the way. Now mind!"

A heavy step was heard shaking the stairs; and almost immediately afterward a gendarme appeared, holding in one hand a vivid, and with the other supporting an individual who seemed unable to walk alone.

"Goudar!" exclaimed M. Folgat, and Goudar it was. But in what state! His clothes were muddy and torn, his face pale, his eyes haggard, his beard and lips covered with white foam.

"The story is this," said the gendarme. "This individual was playing his fiddle in the courtyards of the barracks and we were looking out of the window at him, when all of a sudden he fell on to the ground, rolled about, twisted and writhed, uttering fearful howls, and foaming like a mad dog. We picked him up, and I bring him to you."

"Leave us alone with him," said the physician.

The gendarme went out and as soon as the door was shut, Goudar cried with a voice full of intense disgust, "What a profession! Just look at me! What a disgrace if my wife should see me in this state! Phew. And pulling a handkerchief from his pocket, he wiped his face and drew from his mouth a small piece of soap.

"But the point is," said the doctor, "that you have played the epileptic so well that the gendarmes have been taken in."

"A fine trick indeed, and very creditable."

"An excellent trick, since you can now safely go to the hospital. They will put you in the same ward with Cocoleu, and I shall come and see you every morning. You are free to get now."

"Never mind me," said the detective, "I have my plan." Then turning to M. Folgat, he added, "I am a prisoner now, but I have taken my precautions. The agent whom I have sent to England will report to you. I have a favor to ask besides. I have written to my wife to send her letters to you; you can send them to me by the doctor. And now I am ready to become Cocoleu's companion, and to take the house in the Rue des Vignes."

Having signed an order of admission, Dr. Seignebos recalled the gendarme; and, after praising his compassion, asked him to take "the poor devil" to the hospital. When he was alone once more with M. Folgat, he said, "Now, my dear friend, let us consult. Shall we speak to anyone of what little Martha told us, or of Goudar's plan? I think not; for M. Galpin-Daveline is watching us; and, if a mere suspicion of what is going on reaches the prosecution, all is lost. Let us content ourselves, then, with reporting your interview with the countess to Jacques. As for the rest, silence!"

CHAPTER XXV.

Like all very clever men, Dr. Seignebos made the mistake of thinking other people as cunning as himself. M. Galpin-Daveline was, of course, watching him, but by no means with the attention which one would have expected from so ambitious a man. He had naturally been the first to receive notification that the case would be tried in open court. And from that moment he felt relieved of all anxiety. As for remorse he had none. There was nothing he regretted. He did not reflect that the prosiner had once been his friend—a friend of whom he was proud, whose hospitality he had enjoyed, and whose favor he had eagerly sought in his matrimonial aspirations. No. He only saw one thing—that he was engaged in a dangerous affair, on which his whole future depended, and that he was now going to win triumphantly.

(To be Continued Tomorrow.)

MAN'S RESPONSIBILITY IN AND OUT OF THE CHURCH

The Rev. Grant E. Pike Holds No Man Can Free Himself of Obligation of Being a Christian.

The Rev. Grant E. Pike, pastor of the Shady Avenue Christian church, Allegheny, preached yesterday morning from the text 1 Timothy, iii:xv: "I call your attention to the church and a man's responsibility in or out of it." He said in part:

Israel is the true type of the Christian church. As she was called out of Egypt to follow Moses and become a new nation, so men and women are called out of the world to become new creatures in Christ Jesus. But this is often abused and used in a wrong sense. Many people say, "I am not a member of the church; therefore I do not need to live up to the Christian standard. I have not confessed;

The Rev. Grant E. Pike.

I do not profess; therefore Christ's laws are not binding on me. The church is all right and we cannot do without it. Those should join who desire or feel the need of preparing for death, but they should live up to this standard, for then they are responsible."

This is not only poor logic, but a great perversion of the work of Christ. He came to reveal life; to show the purpose for which this human life has been given. He has shown the world how to live free from the outer trials and inner struggles. Man lives his life in a three-fold relation: To God, to all men, and to all things. As men commit themselves to Christ they are called out from what they once were—the lower life of selfish humanity—to the revealed divine and eternal. No man can say that he is not a Christian and therefore not responsible. The first great judgment—condemnation—is on him already, because he has not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God.

CHURCH NEEDS PURIFYING.

Millvale Pastor So Declares in Sermon on "Wrought Iron Christianity vs. a Cast Iron Make.

"Wrought Iron Christianity Versus Cast Iron Make" was the subject of the sermon delivered yesterday morning at the Millvale Presbyterian church by the Rev. G. M. McCampbell. His text was from Second Corinthians, 5:5. "Now He that hath wrought us for the self-same thing is God, who also hath given unto us the earnest of the spirit." Mr. McCampbell said in part:

The church of today has material enough and the right kind of material, too, but there is a big necessity abroad in the church of having the material wrought over again by the fire of the Spirit of Truth, burning out and off the dross of this world. The difficulty with many—if not the most—of those who call themselves Christians, is they are of a cast iron mold, that church members manufacture the molds for their own castings. The world is shrewd enough to see that the Divine Maker of the Christian life, all of whose work is wrought, has had no hand in the product or the churches have amalgamated the process and tried to counterfeit God's methods. God uses a model of his own, the man, Christ Jesus.

ARCHER REPORTS TO THE SQUAD

Capt. Clarke Looks for All Other Players to Be With Him in a Few Days.

CROWD GOES TO CHURCH

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., March 18.—The folks at home will all hear during the next few days how things are going at the Pirate training camp. The inclemency of the weather permitted no alternative between to remain indoors Sunday, nullifying previously perfected plans for mountain walks and drives; to venture out in the murky atmosphere and chilly rains was to invite pneumonia and kindred ailments. So it was a day of letter writing with the Pittsburgh players.

The stiffness and soreness resulting from the practice of the latter part of week furnished another good reason for remaining in the hotel, but complaints on that score are remarkably few. In fact, it is expected that every man will report for practice in the morning and will go through the regular drill.

Jimmy Archer got in this morning from his Canadian home, bringing with him the information that his better half is convalescent. Karger is expected tomorrow evening from San Antonio, and Capt. Clarke says Smith should be here Monday morning and Peitz a day later.

Archer got in just in time to join a party of church-goers. Clarke, Leach, Flaherty, Ganley, Nealon, Lynch and two or three others attended high mass. Many of them also attended the vesper service in the evening. Players of other denominations did not go to church, most of them contenting themselves with the services conducted by Deacon Phillippe in the hotel. In the afternoon, during an intermission between showers, Wagner chaperoned a party of young players on a tour of Happy Hollow.

Carrie Nation, of hatchet fame, had been announced to appear there and the big Dutchman confessed to a curiosity to see the woman who swings the ax more efficiently than he wields the willow. The weather kept the saloon smasher at home, however, and the party were disappointed.

An interesting report in the camp tonight is that Sam Leever will not manage the Yanigans this year. The same report names as his successor Otis Clymer, under whose able leadership the Colts made such an excellent showing Saturday.

JOHNSTOWN AFTER THE STATE HONORS

High School Basketball Team Has Claim on the Interscholastic Championship.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

JOHNSTOWN, March 18.—The Johnstown High school five last night strengthened its grip on the state championship by defeating the Steelton High school by a score of 63 to 9. The first half was the fastest piece of basketball work ever seen in Johnstown, the score being 18 to 5, in favor of Johnstown. The pace was too hot for Steelton, who was able to score but one point the remainder of the game.

Steelton and Williamsport, over whom Johnstown gained two easy victories, defeated all the High school fives in their respective sections this season. Johnstown's other notable victories were two over the Pittsburgh High school, an even split with Kiskiminitas and one victory each over Butler, Braddock, Indiana and Bellefonte. The only defeat of the season was by Kiski, on the latter's floor, which was redeemed by a one-sided score here last week.

Tri-State Baseball.

Jake Magee, the Uniontown boy who played middle field for Altoona last season, has caught on with Johnstown. He was one of the stars of the Tri-State last season.

"Billy" Hamilton is after Harry McChesney, who was with Milwaukee in the American association last year, and has good hopes of landing him.

Shields of Seattle and Gannon of Memphis have attached their names to Altoona contracts.

Several Tri-State managers received telegrams from Mike Doulin to the effect that he wanted to sign up with them, but all turned him down.

"Billy" Oyler, who signed with Johnstown, has determined to put in another year in the south and has signed with Birmingham in the Southern league. Eddie Pleiss has also jumped the same team in favor of Atlanta, but Johnstown does not feel the loss of either man.

The umpires will have entire charge of the baseballs during the progress of Tri-State games this season and the spit ball artists will be in their glory.

York has finally purchased Weigand from Williamsport and he will be found holding down York's second bag the coming season.

President Bockel of the Altoona club says that he always considered Pearson to be his hard luck pitcher and he only allowed him to go because he thought a change of scene would do him good. Pearson was released at his own request and not sold, Mr. Bockel says, and Johnstown would have signed Alex. had not Harrisburg gobbled him up. Pearson is a general favorite throughout the league.

Rough Game at DeHaven.

In a rough game the DeHavens defeated the W. U. P. dental department at DeHaven Saturday night. As soon as the game had started the college men commenced to play rough and it was necessary for Referee Harris to caution them a number of times. The first half ended with the score of 12 to 5, in favor of the home team. The second half was extremely rough, resulting in a conflict between Harry Wagner and Klawhun of the varsity team. Line-up:

Ewalt	C	Morrow

TROPHY FOR HOCKEY LEAGUE.

President Dee of Portage Lake Club Offers Cup for Next Season.

HANCOCK, MICH., March 18.—(Special.)—An interesting event in hockey circles is the announcement of the intention of James R. Dee, president of the Portage Lake club, to put up a handsome cup to be played for by the teams of the International league or any such organization in which the Portage Lakes may hold membership next season. It will be a valuable trophy and one well worth fighting for.

The uncertainty regarding the composition of the league next season makes the cup prospect all the more attractive. If some of the big cities enter the league, as is confidently expected, they will undoubtedly sign strong teams, but any scrub that will win the cup the first year will have to be as fast as it is possible to make it, if it is to defeat Portage Lake, the Sault Ste. Marie team or the new seven which Calumet is certain to have.

Vandergrift to Have Team.

VANDERGRIFT, PA., March 18.—(Special.)—Vandergrift will have a strong baseball team in the field this year. The following players have already been signed: Sheridan c, Engle or McCreight p, Malarkey 1b, Roach 2b, Orts 3b, Brown ss, Hoosick or Freetley lf, Callahan mf, Kline rf, Erkman. Games have been scheduled with Kiski, Indiana Normal, Pittsburgh college, Philadelphia Colored Giants, All Cubans and Natrona. For games address, C. H. Barclay, Vandergrift.

Schaefer Team Ahead.

The Schaefer pool team defeated the Brown team 100 to 75. Score:

Schaefers—		Browns—
Eigenmann	28	Alpern	41
Schaefer	38	Lovell	21
Mansfield	37	Williams	13
Total	101	Total	80

PRINCETON TO HAVE BETTER TRACK TEAMS

One of the most noticeable features in Princeton athletics for the past few years has been the increased interest which is being manifested in the track team. For many seasons the Tigers have not taken this branch of athletics seriously, but have gone about it in a half-hearted way and as a result when the intercollegiate came round Princeton would only have a few stars to send without the help of any medium material and to get third place would be doing exceptionally well.

Now, however, the Princetonians seem to be facing a different situation and it is all due to the personal work and inspiration of Al. Copeland, who has undertaken to handle the track material this season and put into it some of the spirit for which he was noted at the New York Athletic club.

The spirit will undoubtedly manifest itself this spring and the Tigers promise to make themselves felt in the intercollegiates. Despite the fact that such valuable men as Capt. R. E. Williams, 1904, and D. C. Chapin, P. G., have been lost by graduation, and Captain-elect S. Rufon-Miller, 1907, of Philadelphia, has resigned on account of ill-health, the nucleus of a good team is by no means small.

The man who have shown ability before and are still in college are: N. B. Tooker, 1906, who won fourth place in the high jump in the Intercollegiates last spring; Capt. W. M. Armstrong, 1907, won won third place in the low hurdles, and L. H. Simons, 1908, who won the broad jump in the same meet. H. L. Moore, 1906, whose vault of 11 feet 9 inches in the Olympic games at St. Louis in 1904 established a new Princeton record, is eligible to compete this season. Last year he was debarred on account of poor scholarship. In this event good vaulting can be expected from C. Goodrich, 1906; H. Tenney, 1907, the football player, and G. B. Lambert, 1908. C. B. Gibbens, 1907, and W. B. Connors, 1908, both of whom are fair sprinters will have to do the work in these events, unless some surprising material appears in the entering class.

R. C. Runyon, 1908, and L. B. George, 1908, are slated as the foremost quarter-milers, while A. T. Maurice, 1906; H. S. Edwards, 1906, and R. P. Lincle, 1908, are down for the half mile. A. J. Swan, 1906; J. L. Eisele, 1906, and J. H. Kelly, 1908, will be the chief distance runners; J. H. Nuelle, 1907, being relied on the low hurdles, and N. B. Tooker, 1906; D. Laird, 1906; F. Ullman, 1906, and T. S. Clark, 1907, in the high jump. In men for the weight events the Tigers have been weak ever since the graduation of John Hartwell, and this season promises to prove no exception to the rule.

Some of the freshmen who have so far shown marked ability are: A. H. Tibbett, 1909, of Philadelphia, in the hurdles; R. A. Gamble, in the sprints; H. R. Stiles, H. L. Powers and W. S. Bergland, in the quarter-mile run; N. Floyd and E. H. Kells, in the half-mile; R. P. Parsons, in the mile; D. N. Gelpin, in the high jump, and G. H. Fryer, left end on the football team, in the hammer throw.

Without a doubt the best middle and long-distance runner in preparatory school today is Wilton C. Paull of Buffalo, a student at Mercersburg academy. He is a former student of Master Park High school and last year was the only man in the school capable of facing Melvin Sheppard, the holder of the world's mile run indoor record. Paull represented Master park in the Cornell interscholastic meet, held at Ithaca last May. He ran in the mile and Sheppard was picked as an easy winner, but Paull surprised everyone by sticking close to Sheppard's heels throughout, only losing in the final sprint for the tape. Sheppard in this race smashed all school mile records by going the distance in 4:23 2-5, while Paull was only a second behind. Trainer Moakley of Cornell at that time bespoke a great future for the Buffalo boy.

Paull entered Mercersburg last fall and in the annual fall meet of the school he won the mile and two-mile runs, establishing new school records in both distances. These performances stamped Paull as a wonderful distance runner. At the middle states interscholastic indoor championships held in Philadelphia on Washington's birthday, perhaps Paull has done his best work so far in his career. A Philadelphia paper states "the wonderful running of W. C. Paull, the little Mercersburg academy athlete, in the half-mile, one-mile and two-mile events; the latter of which he smashed the record, was without exception, the finest work of its kind ever seen in this city."

Paull was the individual star of this meet. He won the mile, then the two-mile, and then the half-mile run, winning all three of these events in less than an hour and with hardly any rest between. He ran the two miles in 10:13 2-5, establishing a new American interscholastic record for this distance. Johnny Mack, formerly trainer at Mercersburg, but now Yale university trainer, saw Paull's running at Philadelphia, and he was loud in his praise of the Buffalo boy and like Moakley of Cornell, predicted a great future for him. Paull will have a fine chance to do some great running in the spring, as Mercersburg sends her track team to Princeton, Cornell, Yale and Pennsylvania interscholastic meets, and he will undoubtedly place the scholastic record for the two-mile run under 10 minutes.

James Turner, the Northwestern end rush, and a man of considerable note in track and baseball, has finally entered Dartmouth. If he stays for summer school he will be able to participate in athletics next fall.

Yale outclassed Cornell at wrestling Saturday night in the dual meet at Ithaca, winning all of the six bouts. Four decisions were on falls and two on points. The shortest bout was between Kenworthy of Yale and Whitehead of Cornell in the heavyweight class, Whitehead being thrown in one minute and 10 seconds.

About 40 candidates report daily for the Dickinson track team. Although the material for the team is nearly all new, the prospects are becoming brighter for a successful season.

AMONG THE BOXERS.

Joe Alton has now proved that he is the best fighter in the city at his weight, 124 pounds, and it is the intention of his manager, Jimmy Mason to get some of the best out of town fighters to meet him. Saturday night Alton, for the second time, showed that he could easily beat Jack Rowe by knocking him out in three rounds.

Paul Moore, the welterweight fighter of this city, will be the star attraction in a show that will be held here in a few weeks. Moore has a record of twenty-five straight knock-outs and all against men who outweighed him.

Jimmy Mason will bring Harry Lewis here shortly to fight some local man and the people will see a fighter who has just recently fought Jimmy Gardner twice to a draw.

PITTSBURGH BOWLERS DIFFER IN OPINION

Some Favor East While Others Want Next National Tournament Held in the West.

LOCALS ARE AT LOUISVILLE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 18.—Headed by George Metzgar, one of the executive committeemen of the American Bowling congress, the Pittsburgh delegation to the sixth annual national bowling tournament arrived here this afternoon in company with a large delegation of Cincinnati bowlers. About twenty-five men were in the party, in addition to which a half dozen arrived last night while a couple of men are expected tomorrow. The boys are stopping at the Hotel Seelbach.

Immediately on their arrival here the Pittsburgh delegates were the recipients of a lot of attention from the Philadelphia and St. Louis delegations who are striving for the next national tournament. The Smoky City boys are rather divided on the subject, three of the delegates being in favor of Philadelphia as the site for the next convention while Committeeman Metzgar and the other two delegates seemed inclined to vote for St. Louis. However, the chance are that the delegation will act in unison and when the convention is held tomorrow they will be found lined up for one or the other as a whole, with the chances slightly in favor of Philadelphia.

The general opinion is that the tournament should go east, the St. Louis inclination being based mainly on the argument that the east has never supported and has no great interest in the welfare of the A. B. C. The final outcome of the fight depends largely on the action of the Pittsburgh men as with their support Philadelphia will be practically assured of the tournament.

No rolling was done in the tournament today in accordance with the announcement of last week. The visiting bowlers who are coming in on every train put in their time in various ways, many of them engaging in impromptu matches around at the various local alleys. Tomorrow forencon the activities will again start and all during the week the bowlers will be striving to take down a part of the prize money.

Of the 32 five-man teams that rolled only the Pastimes of Cincinnati and the ex-National champion O'Learys of Chicago, who have over 2,700 are expected to land in the money and they will probably not be in the first dozen. The Federals of Pittsburgh are confident of making a good showing and are backing themselves to beat 2,700.

The St. Henrys would like to play a postponed match with the St. Charles tonight on the latter's alleys.

WEIGHTS ANNOUNCED FOR METROPOLITAN HANDICAP

NEW YORK, March 18.—Weights of the Metropolitan handicap at one mile, to be run the opening day of the first spring meeting of the West Chester Racing association at Belmont park, May 10, were announced tonight by W. S. Vosburgh, handicapper of the jockey club. The entries number 89 and include practically all of the horses entered for the other big spring handicaps, although they greatly outnumber those named for either the Brooklyn, Suburban or Brighton. James R. Keene's famous Melton, four years old Sysonby, is top weight with 131 pounds and E. R. Thomas's aged campaigner, Hermis, has the second place with 128 pounds. Ort Wells rates next with 125 pounds. Then follow Delphi, 124; Stalwart and Artful, 123 each; Hamburg Belle, 122 and Roseben 121. Harry Payne Whitney's Hamburg colt, Burgomaster, heads the three-year-olds with 118. The Crescent City derby winner of yesterday, Gulling Star, is thrown into the Metropolitan with 94 pounds.

The Metropolitan last year resulted in a dead heat between Sysonby and O. L. Richard's Race King. Race King is named to start this year and will carry only 99 pounds as against Sysonby's 131.

SPEEDWAY NOT GOOD.

Snow Horses Found Little to Call Out Their Speed on Bad Track.

Horsemen were out yesterday on the Beechwood boulevard speedway, but the footing was too bad for speeding. Just one path down the center could be used. Heretofore the speedway has been rolled and some care taken with it, but this winter it has not been looked after at all.

John Werner, behind Louise Mac (2:08¾), O. H. Werner, with Kitty L. (2:16¾), Henry Rea, behind his speedy bay pacing mare which is said to show quarters in 32, and Contractor Phelan trying out his black trotter, said to have a mark of 2:12, were noticed in the bunch.

Stanton avenue seems to be the spot for the East End horsemen just now. On Saturday quite a number of snow horses were out and there were some lively brushes. In the throng was noticed J. D. Callery, who has always had some good snow horses.

OHIO VALLEY LEAGUE TO BE ORGANIZED SOON

The meeting for the organization of the Ohio Valley baseball league to be represented by the following towns, Bellevue, Avalon, Ben Avon, Coraopolis, Sewickley, Leetsdale and Ambridge, will be held at the residence of Charles Patton, 521 Hill street, Sewickley, tomorrow evening. A meeting was held March 1, but nothing definite was decided.

Election at Mt. Union.

ALLIANCE, O., March 18.—(Special.)—Following the resignations of R. D. Reeder, captain of the Mt. Union college football team, and H. A. Albright, captain of the baseball team, a meeting was held to fill the vacancies. H. B. Johns, of the sophomore class, was chosen to captain the football squad, and F. E. Schultz was elected to a similar position by the baseball team. Johns was the star halfback on last year's eleven. Reeder and Albright do not expect to be in college here this year.

GOSSIP ABOUT MEN IN M. O. P. LEAGUE

Steubenville is flirting with Pitcher Frank Eastley, who is signed by Harrisburg. Steubenville offers him almost as much money as does the Tri-State league club and it is likely he will accept. Harrisburg has a big bunch of pitchers signed and it is not likely the Senators will offer a strong kick if he accepts Pres Thompson's offer.

At the meeting of the Pennsylvania, Ohio and Maryland league Saturday there were five fullfledged lawyers and two third year law students. This fact was noticed when George Young, of Cumberland, inquired whether there was an attorney in the league when a matter of business was being discussed.

Cumberland will have Hugh Tate, the left fielder, who is claimed by Sioux City and Dallas. Cumberland will sign other players from that section of the country who before Saturday's meeting, had intended going to the clubs they belonged.

Don. McKim, Esq., manager of the Braddock team, always acts as secretary of the meetings. He performed similar duties in societies at Westminster college a few years ago.

Dr. Wasson of the Butler club is negotiating with Harvey Hollis, the well-known pitcher, to manage his club. Hollis has a wide experience in baseball and should do well at managing a club.

Had McKeesport entered the league Jack Lang, of South Fork, the former Tri-State catcher, would have managed it. Lang, in consequence, is unengaged.

New Castle Players Signed.

NEW CASTLE, PA., March 18.—(Special.)—Manager Stetler of the New Castle team today announced his list of players. The latest additions are George Stanford of Cleveland, a first baseman, and Ralph Cox, who last season was with the Cortland team in the Empire State league. William Viebahn, who played with Dickison college last season, has been signed to pitch. Joseph Eisenlohran, outfielder, comes from the Connecticut league. The other players are: Ed. Schlatter, first; Joseph Wilson, second; Arthur Thomas, short; Louis Hadding, Bill Smith, Harry Rusker and Mac L. McClefferty, outfielders; William Viebahn, Peter Dorn, Rube Bowers, George Moore, Roy Fennel and Harry Guy pitchers.

PITTSBURGH COLLEGIANS GET SOME BIG GAMES

The Pittsburgh Collegians will be the July 4 attraction at Beaver Falls this year. Harry Pfeifer, who caught on the Collegians' team last year and who has been engaged to manage the Athletics, wanted his old team for this big date. Pfeifer means to have a winning team at Beaver Falls and he is securing the strongest attractions. He realized the drawing strength of the collegians and thought they would be the best for the day. The collegians played two games last July 4 with Marty Hogan's champions at Youngstown.

CONRIED'S FORCES START ON TOUR TO THE PACIFIC

Grand Opera Organization Leaves New York's Metropolitan and Heads Towards Pittsburgh.

Having brought his third season at the Metropolitan opera house, New York, to a triumphant close last Saturday night, Herr Heinrich Conried begins today the second trans-continental tour with his renowned singers, and the orchestra, chorus and ballet, the great organization that has made the stage of the New York opera house the most noted in all the world.

One week from tonight the Pittsburgh season will begin. Tonight the tour opens in Baltimore, where four appearances will be made, and then the company proceeds to Washington, where an equal number of performances will be given. The total number of presentations to be given in both these cities, which combined have nearly three times the population of Pittsburgh, only equals the total number designed for this city, and Pittsburgh accordingly, takes her place as one of the chief operatic centers of the country, which include in addition to New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Philadelphia.

The Conried organization will travel by special trains of private, sleeping, dining and baggage cars. There are nearly 200 people in the organization, including all departments.

The entire company is in active charge of Ernest Goerlitz, the general manager of the Conried forces, and Mr. Conried's chief aid and adviser. Max Hirsch, who is well known here, through his long years of association with the various regimes that have controlled the operatic destinies of the Metropolitan, will act as treasurer on the tour, and the executive forces will be as last year.

The public sale of seats for one or more performances of the Pittsburgh season will be resumed at the Nixon this morning. There are still many choice vantage points to be had. From every seat within the beautiful Nixon the opera can be seen and heard.

Cashier Everett Still in Jail.

HAZLETON, PA., March 18.—The directors of the First National bank of Freeland, whose cashier is under arrest for alleged misappropriation of $50,000 of its funds, felt more hopeful today over the situation than they did yesterday. A bank examiner will go over the books tomorrow. Cashier Everett has not yet secured bail, but expects to get a bondsman tomorrow.

In the Oil Fields

In the Fairview district, in Marion county, the South Penn Oil Company completed its No. 5 on the M. E. Bookover farm and got a producer in the fifth sand that placed 100 barrels to its credit the second day after completion. The starting and completion of this well was unique in a way. Perhaps no other well ever drilled in in West Virginia, or any other state for that matter, met with so many reverses from the time it was started till it was drilled into the pay. The contract was let almost three years ago and operations had no sooner begun than hard luck overtook the contractor. Fishing jobs and then a plugged hole or two, necessitating the moving of the rig. The contractor kept working away until he was bankrupt and quit the job. Then the South Penn Company put its own crew to work on the well and it did not have smooth sailing by any means but at last completed it and got a good producer. Under favorable conditions the cost of completing a fifth sand well is about $10,000, but the amount expended in completing this one was three or four times that sum.

The old wells in Butler, Allegheny and Washington counties have been given that treatment so many times that it no longer has the desired effect. They show a slight increase for a few days and then drop back to what they were doing before dosed with the high explosive fluid. In West Virginia and Southeastern Ohio it is the rule to shoot the new wells as soon as drilled through the sand, and shooting the old producers is the general practice. In some instances the increase in production is quite gratifying. In the Fairview district, Marion county, the South Penn Oil Company shot its old No. 1 on the A. Conway farm during the week and increased its production to 150 barrels a day. In the Smithfield district the same company shot its No. 3 on the Matilda Gallagher farm and increased its production to more than 100 barrels a day. Many others were shot in other fields but none responded with so great an increase in production.

SNOWSLIDE WRECKS CAMP.

One Man Dead, Others Possibly Lost and Mining Property Valued at $400,000 Destroyed.

OURAY, COL., March 18.—A mammoth snowslide in the Mount Sneffels region, six miles south of Ouray, last night, wrecked the Camp Bird mine mill, tram house, boarding house and reading-room. William Cressey was killed, and it is feared that other lives were lost. A number of men, it is reported, were seriously injured. The property loss is $400,000.

The Camp Bird bunkhouse, containing 200 men, narrowly escaped destruction. The slide had largely spent its force before reaching the assay shops and general offices of the Camp Bird mine. This avalanche moves annually, but it was larger this year than usual.

BOATS RUN DEAD HEAT.

The James Moran and the Coal City, two of the biggest towboats in the fleet of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company arrived in the Pittsburgh harbor yesterday morning with empties. Each boat had lashed before her 21 barges and six light boats, the biggest tows of empties either boat ever brought up stream. The journey was a notable one, as the two big steamers started from Cincinnati together and the rivalry and the chivalry of the crews was shown in their efforts to get to Pittsburgh first. It was anybody's race right to the finish, and although at no time was there any danger from too much firing under the boilers, the trip from Cincinnati was made in record time, considering the size of the tows. Both boats passed over Davis island dam at the same time and as the channel narrows just above the Western penitentiary, neither crew made any effort to get under the Point bridge first. It was called a dead heat and the boats pushed leisurely up the Monongahela together. The race recalled the stories of old times on the rivers, when the packets ran thrilling races from one point to another.

Preparations are being made by the local coal interests for a good boating stage or even a flood. There are more than 4,000,000 bushels of coal tied up in the Pittsburgh harbor and in readiness for movement south.

Making a Housewife of Daughter

Most mothers agree in a vague general way that a practical scientific knowledge of cookery is an invaluable accomplishment. Many thoughtful women are convinced that the education of the housekeeper is the key to the puzzle of domestic service. The ability to direct intelligently the work of others—if necessary to be able to do it better yourself—this is the whole matter in a nutshell. This gives a freedom and independence in home life impossible where the mistress is tragically inefficient.

If we train the rising generation of daughters to be competent to meet any domestic crisis, we are preparing them for happiness in future homes of their own as well as for present usefulness.

In studying the best way to interest girls in cookery under the varying conditions of each household, more considerations enter into the solution of the problem than would at first appear. Methods that would be delightful and interesting where mother and daughter work alone are out of the question where Bridget or Dinah reigns supreme. The girl in the country finds herself hampered by lack of utensils and materials available to the city cousin. No hard and fast rules can be given as to ways and means.

Of course some girls like to cook and these will learn to concoct tempting dishes if marooned on a desert isle. Other girls refuse to have any connection with saucepan or spider and it requires the tact of a Talleyrand to give them the most cursory knowledge of culinary methods. Many times the social factor is available in producing good cooks. A chafing dish club that meets once each week will prove attractive to girls who dislike cut-and-dry instructions. A knowledge of rarebit, oyster Newburg, fudge and similar dainties will often pave the way for more general knowledge. If friends are in the habit of dropping in to Sunday evening tea, it might be advisable to make a specialty of recipes suitable for this occasion.

In some families the noonday meal on washday is a mockery. If there is a laundry which leaves a clear field in the kitchen this is an admirable time for experiments by the daughter who is not at school. There is nothing more discouraging to the amateur nobly ambitious to measure and "time" everything, than the critical presence of the family cook who goes solely by "judgment."

Where the mother is the cook it depends largely upon temperament whether or not the best results can be obtained together or alone. If the mother is ignorant of modern scientific methods and is too busy or too tired to post herself, it is a good plan to give her a regular day off and let daughter be monarch temporarily of all she surveys. It is good for daughter and good for mother also. It convinces the one that experience counts for much and the other that possibly there are two excellent ways of doing the same thing.

If you wish daughter to succeed in anything you must furnish her with the very best instruction, textbooks and utensils that the market supplies. In large cities give them the advantage of the cooking school. If this is out of the question there is usually a class at some private school or some teacher can be found who will give lessons to a special class. When these expedients are impossible a cooking club with the most practical and enthusiastic member as leader will work wonders. A class that meets from house to house where the mother or big sister will demonstrate her most famous dish is another method of combining pleasure and profit.

A great deal more depends in all cases in the appreciation of success and the tolerance of failure accorded by the home circle than upon outside encouragement. Remember that the amateur cook is easily discouraged.

If daughter is disposed to consider cookery commonplace and uninteresting, call to their attention the opinion of the art critic, Ruskin: "To be a good cook means the knowledge of all fruits, herbs, balms and spices and of all that is healing and sweet in fields and groves, and savory in meats. It means carefulness, inventiveness, watchfulness and readiness of appliance. It means the economy of your great grandmother and the science of the modern chemist. It means much tasting and no wasting. It means English thoroughness, French art and Arabian hospitality. It means in fine, that you are to be perfectly and always ladies (loaf givers) and are to see that everyone has something nice to eat."

A PRINCESSE BOLERO.

This was one of the first of the early designs to be stamped with fashion's approval. A charming model is sketched here, being developed in light grey Panama cloth checked with short stripes in olive green silk. The skirt is trimmed with three applied tucks stitched around the bottom, ending either side of the plaited front. About the tucks is a band of grey and green silk braid. Above the molded hip is a deep girdle of green cloth, stitched with braid. This meets a jatty Eton jacket outlined with braid and having a vest of green cloth trimmed with embroidery. The cloth collar and cuffs are also embroidery trimmed and edged with narrow ruffles of white Valenciennes lace.

A great deal of grey and green are used in making the new season frocks and whether employed separately or together, no colors will be found that lend themselves more charmingly to the elegant braids and embroidered trimmings which must be worked into the decorative schemes of a gown to give the required cachet. Coats, both long and short are fitted with the most luxurious little vests imaginable, with which the collar and cuffs are expected to correspond. The model reproduced above is completed with a stunning hat of green satin chip trimmed with velvet ribbon and two long grey quills.

For the Housewife.

Salt thrown on smoking fat removes all odor and smoke.

Never use a galvanized iron squeezer for your lemons. When brought in contact with the lemon juice it forms a poisonous acid. A glass lemon squeezer is by far the best.

The average housewife will find it much more an economy of time and labor to buy her potato chips ready made. Do not neglect crisping them for a few moments in the hot oven before serving.

Wagon grease may be removed by moistening a piece of laundry soap slightly and rubbing it on the grease spot. Do not put the fabric in water at once. Coat it with soap thickly and leave it thus for three hours. Rinse in cold water.

One of the best cures for hoarseness is a strong decoction of horseradish with a little vinegar, sweetened with honey. A tablespoonful every hour will be sufficient.

Where a Smart Frock Wins.

"Do not overrate your power of mind and underrate that of your pretty frock," a modern philosopher advises the sex. So far, very good, but the blundering man continues: "To be a reformer in a pretty frock requires particular powers of mental detachment." Not a bit of it, my honored sir. To be a reformer or anything else at all satisfactory to yourself or the company in an ugly frock, would require tremendous powers of mental detachment. A woman conscious of the becomingness of a pretty frock is at her best. It matters not whether she be attempting the conquest of an audience or of a lone man. Give her the assurance in her mirror or in the eyes of her fellow woman that her gown is the smartest ever, and you can depend upon the dear soul to do the very extremest best of which she is capable.

Practical Favors for the Young Man.

Long years ago the maidens fair testified their devotion by working for their favored swains a necktie in crochet. Whether or not the young men in question admired the cravats deponent saveth not, certain it is that many of them displayed these trophies much as the girl of today does her cotillion favors.

However, the cravat in crochet has passed, like the tale that is told, and the girls are turning their attention from college and smokers' pillows to the embroidering of the initial on the shirt sleeve just above the cuff. This is a decidedly practical favor, but the maiden of '06 rather prides herself on her lack of sentimentality.

Another piece of handwork that the brother or "co-ed" chum is said to appreciate is the traveling collar bag. To make these collar bags a circle of chamois is procured large enough to cover a circular piece of cardboard seven inches in diameter. Around this sew a strip of chamois seven inches in depth and finish the top with a drawstring and cord. A monogram embroidered on the edge adds the individual touch.

A good many sermons are like up-to-date crackers—mighty little nutriment done up in much flourishment.

"USELESS WORRY ABOUT FUTURE PUNISHMENT"

No Man, Says Dr. Donehoo, Was Ever Attracted to Church and Saved Through Fear of Hell.

Taking his text from II Timothy, II:xvIII, "Foolish and unlearned questions avoid, knowing that they do gender strife," the Rev. Dr. E. R. Donehoo, pastor of the West End Presbyterian church, preached yesterday morning on "Useless Worry About Future Punishment." Dr. Donehoo said:

The most lamentable happenings and shameful stories in the church, have been produced through meddling with foolish and unlearned questions, to the neglect of the simple and practical teachings of scripture. The only question of that kind that I am to consider just now, but it is the one that has occasioned more misunderstanding and confusion, more misery and strife, than all others combined, is the question of future punishment. This, however, has not always been the case. In the Old Testament the question of future punishment is very rarely mentioned, and then only incidentally. The one all-important thought with law-giver and sage and prophet and inspired singer was the present life, with its duties and demands, its rewards and retributions. And the teachings of Jesus were in the same line. His appeals were directed towards our conduct here, our daily work, our personal testimony in the sight of God and our fellowmen. I do not wish to be understood as implying that Jesus did not clearly recognize the doctrine of future punishment, and plainly assert it when the occasion demanded it. But he certainly did not employ the doctrine as the one great persuasive to lead men to accept the gospel. It was to the beauty and harmony and rewards of a religious life, to be secured by following His teachings and imitating His example, that He exhorted men.

How far the church has departed from the simple loving, practical methods of the Savior in trying to win men to a life of holiness, one needs but to examine the creeds and dogmas which from time to time have been sent forth in the name of our Christian faith. I believe in creeds, when properly used, but am opposed to setting up systems of men's own devising. One of the saddest blunders that religious teachers have made has been in striving to drive men into the church by appealing to their fears of punishment hereafter. I never knew of a sensible man who had been led to abandon a course of sin, and to lead a religious life, through the dread of future punishment. If a man cannot be brought to see the attraction which is in a good life here on earth, in its privileges and compensations; if Christianity does not appeal to him as the sovereign remedy for this life's griefs and woes and temptations, and for the things which make of this life a hell, I utterly despair of his salvation through having the fires of hell flashed into his face, and the torments of the damned shrieked into his ears incessantly.

If the Universalist, who believes in no hell at all, will only quit denouncing those whom he brands as intolerable bigots, and the rigidly orthodox, who insist on a literal and everlasting hell, will agree to leave the matter in the hands of the Judge of all the earth, and they both will devote themselves to making their own and others' lives more in harmony with the pattern set them by Jesus Christ, they will discover, when the mists which hang over death's dark river are left behind, that the loving Father of us all had settled that matter infinitely more satisfactorily than was ever possible to the wisest of morals in their earthly environment.

PREPARATION FOR PRAYER.

Absolute Separation from Worldly Affairs Necessary Before We Are Ready to Commune With God.

"Preparation for Prayer" was the subject of yesterday evening's discourse by the Rev. A. E. Iann at the Lawrenceville Presbyterian church. His text was from Mark, 6:46, "And when He had sent them away, He departed into a mountain to pray." He said:

If we would have unbroken communion with God we must send away all human fellowships. The hour must be given fully to God. The example of Christ in this regard has been followed by many of the most eminent saints. They have sought time and places where they could be alone with God. They loved Christian fellowship, but they came into those experiences when they wanted to dismiss them all and go into the mountain of solitary prayer. If we find our thoughts running over our ledgers rather than over the catalogue of our sins, we are not prepared. If we find ourselves thinking of our business rather than of the King's affairs, we are not fit to be in the presence of the Lord of Lords. We must separate ourselves both from our earthly companionships and daily cares before we are qualified to go to the mount of God.

THE EASY OIL.

Scott's Emulsion is "the easy oil"—easy to take, easy in action. Its use insures deliverance from the griping and nauseating sensation peculiar to the raw oil. Nobody who has any regard for the stomach thinks of taking cod liver oil in the old way when Scott's Emulsion is to be had. It is equally certain that no one whose health is properly regarded will accept a cheap emulsion or alcoholic substitute for Scott's Emulsion. It fulfills every mission of cod liver oil and more.
